Dear [REDACTED]

The privacy and security of the personal information we maintain is of the utmost importance to the American Board of Preventive Medicine (“ABPM”). We are writing with important information regarding a data security incident. As such, we want to provide you with information about the incident, let you know the services we are making available to you, and let you know that we continue to take significant measures to protect your information.

What Happened?

As a result of a cybersecurity incident, ABPM learned that an unauthorized actor gained access to our network environment.

What We Are Doing.

Upon learning of this issue, we immediately worked to secure our internal environment. We commenced a prompt and thorough investigation into the incident and worked very closely with external cybersecurity professionals experienced in handling these types of situations to help determine whether any personal or sensitive data had been compromised as a result of this incident. After an extensive forensic investigation and complex manual document review, we discovered on or about September 24, 2026, that certain electronic files, which were accessed and/or acquired between on or about March 8, 2026 and March 10, 2026, contained some of your personal information as described in more detail below.

What Information Was Involved?

The information involved includes your full name and [REDACTED]

What You Can Do.

We have no knowledge that your information has been or will be misused as a direct result of this incident. Out of an abundance of caution and to protect you from potential misuse of your information, we are offering complimentary access to IDX Credit and CyberScan monitoring, a $1,000,000 insurance reimbursement policy, and fully managed id theft recovery services for [REDACTED] months.

This letter also provides other precautionary measures you can take to protect your personal information, including placing a fraud alert and/or security freeze on your credit files, and/or obtaining a free credit report. Additionally, you should always remain vigilant in reviewing your financial account statements and credit reports for fraudulent or irregular activity on a regular basis. To the extent it is helpful, we have also included details on protecting your medication information.

For More Information.

We are committed to maintaining the privacy of personal information in our possession and have taken many precautions to safeguard it. We continually evaluate and modify our practices and internal controls to enhance the security and privacy of your personal information.

If you have any further questions regarding this incident, please call our toll-free response line at 1-888-202-2907. The response line is available Monday through Friday, from 9 am - 9 pm Eastern Time.

Sincerely,

American Board of Preventive Medicine
