EZaccessMD, LLC Provides Notice of Data Event

EZaccessMD, LLC "EZaccessMD" is posting notice of a recent event that may impact the security of information related to certain individuals. While EZaccessMD has no evidence that any potentially impacted information has been used to commit identity theft or fraud, EZaccessMD is providing information about the incident, steps taken since discovering the incident, and resources available to potentially affected individuals to help protect their information from possible misuse, should they feel it is appropriate to do so.

What Happened?

On or around July 30, 2026, EZaccessMD discovered suspicious activity within our environment. We immediately launched an investigation with the assistance of third-party specialists to determine the full nature and scope of the activity. The investigation determined there was unauthorized access to our environment between June 30, 2026, and July 30, 2026, and that certain files and folders within the network were improperly accessed without authorization during that time. We are currently performing a comprehensive and time-consuming review of the affected files to determine the type of information impacted and to whom it relates. Once complete, notice will be provided to affected individuals.

What Information Was Involved?

Based on our investigation to date, the information potentially affected may include a combination of certain individuals' name, relation, DOB, gender, address, phone number, SSN, symptoms, physician name and ICD-10 codes, diagnosis, lab results and medications. Our review of the information involved remains ongoing.

What EZaccessMD Is Doing.

EZaccessMD takes this incident and the security of information in their care very seriously. Upon becoming aware of this incident, EZaccessMD promptly commenced an investigation to confirm the nature and scope of this incident. As part of EZaccessMD's ongoing commitment to the privacy of information in its care, EZaccessMD is reviewing its policies, procedures and processes to reduce the likelihood of a similar future event.
