

September 12, 2025 – Hampton Regional Medical Center (“HRMC”) is issuing notice of a recent event that may impact the security of information related to certain individuals. We are providing information about the event, our response, and steps potentially affected individuals may take to help protect their information.

Who We Are. HRMC is a general acute care hospital located in Varnville, South Carolina, providing an array of medical services including physician and provider services.

What Happened. On or about July 16, 2025, HRMC became aware of suspicious activity in our computer environment. We promptly launched an investigation, with the assistance of third-party cybersecurity specialists, to determine the nature and scope of the event. The investigation is ongoing at this time. However, as of this writing, the investigation has determined that, between June 18th and July 16th, 2025, an unauthorized actor accessed certain systems and may have accessed or taken certain data.

Accordingly, we are conducting a review of the potentially impacted data to determine what information may have been involved and to whom such information relates. Once complete, we will also work to confirm the identities of, and appropriate contact information for, those potentially impacted and provide notice via written letter.

In the interim, we are providing notice of the event to potentially impacted individuals via this website posting and by issuing notice to the media. We are also notifying certain government regulators, as required.

What Information Was Affected. HRMC’s investigation and review are ongoing, and the types of information involved likely vary by individual. However, based on information currently known, the types of information potentially impacted could include the following: names; Social Security numbers; dates of birth; driver’s license or state identification numbers; medical information; and other demographic information.

What We Are Doing. We take this event and information security very seriously. Upon learning of this event, we promptly launched an investigation and worked quickly to assess the security of HRMC’s computer environment. As part of our ongoing commitment to information security, we are also reviewing our existing policies and procedures and implementing additional administrative and technical safeguards. Once the investigation and review processes are complete, we will mail written notice to individuals identified as potentially impacted with updated information regarding the event, HRMC’s response, and the types of information specific to each individual that were potentially impacted.

What Affected Individuals Can Do. As a precautionary measure, individuals are encouraged to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing their account statements, credit reports, and explanations of benefits for unusual activity and to detect errors. We also encourage you to report promptly any suspicious activity to your credit card company, bank, healthcare/insurance provider, or other applicable institution. Additional information and resources can be found below in the Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information.

Steps You Can Take To Help Protect Your Information

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. You may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of your credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a credit freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial, as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a fraud alert or a credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
