11 MICHAEL PALLAGROSI, on behalf of himself
12 and all others similarly situated,

13 Plaintiff,

14 v.

15 THE GAP, INC.; GAP (APPAREL) LLC; GAP
16 INTERNATIONAL SALES, INC.; BANANA
17 REPUBLIC, LLC; and BANANA REPUBLIC
18 (APPAREL) LLC,

Case No.:

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT & JURY TRIAL DEMAND

20 Plaintiff Michael Pallagrosi, individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated,
21 through his undersigned attorneys, files this class action complaint against Defendants and alleges 22 as follows:

23 NATURE OF THE ACTION

24 1. Plaintiff brings this proposed class action against Defendants alleging violations of 25 federal pricing regulations and the consumer protection laws of California, New Jersey and 26 Florida, as well as the common law.

27 2. Specifically, it is alleged that Defendants engaged in a uniform policy of advertising 28 fictitious purported former prices and percentage-off discounts in the advertising, marketing, and sale of apparel and other personal items at their Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory stores.

1 This scheme, which is set forth in more detail herein, may be summarized as follows.

2 3. First, Defendants have a uniform policy of creating and listing an arbitrary “fake”
3 base price on the price tag of every item offered for sale in their Banana Republic Factory and
4 Gap Factory stores throughout the United States. This is an artificially high price that purports to 5 be – but is not – each item’s original or regular, non-discounted price (hereafter “fake base price”).
6 See Exhibit A, Banana Republic Factory Store Receipt, stating the base price of the “Aiden
7 Camo” purchased by Plaintiff Pallagrosi as “$24.99.” These fake base prices are created by 8 Defendants, using a set of uniform criteria created by Defendants, and are not based on any real
9 prices at which the items in question are actually sold or offered for sale by Defendants or their 10 competitors. Indeed, the fake base prices are much higher than the prices at which the items in 11 question are actually sold or offered for sale by Defendants. These fake base prices are then used
12 by Defendants to create the misleading impression in the minds of consumers that the prices of the 13 items have been “discounted” when Defendants offer to sell these items at a price far lower than 14 the fake base price. See Exhibit A, Banana Republic Factory Store Receipt, stating there was an 15 “Item Discount 50%” on the “Aiden Camo” purchased by Plaintiff Pallagrosi, resulting in a 16 purported sale price of “$12.49.” In actuality, the lower, purportedly discounted prices are the 17 prices at which Defendants consistently and regularly sell the items in question. In fact, the 18 overwhelming majority of these items are never actually sold or offered for sale at the higher fake
19 base price listed on the items’ price tags for any length of time. In a very few cases, the items are 20 offered for sale at the fake base price, but only for a very few days. When this is done, it is done
21 solely to bolster the claim that the item has been “discounted” when, a few days later, Defendants
22 offer the item at a lower, purportedly discounted price. None of the items offered for sale in 23 Defendants’ Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory stores are ever consistently sold at the 24 higher fake base prices. For all such items, the prices at which the items are consistently and 25 regularly sold by Defendants is actually the lower, purportedly-discounted prices.
26
27
28

1 4. Second, Defendants perpetually advertise the items for sale on uniformly-worded
2 signs in their Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory stores. See Exhibit B, “50% OFF” sign
3 in Defendants’ Banana Republic Factory store. This practice is deceptive and misleading because 4 the advertised percentage-off discounts claimed on such signs – such as “50% OFF” – do not
5 represent an actual discount. Rather, the purported percentage-off discount listed on such signs
6 merely represents the difference between the higher fake base price created by Defendants and the 7 lower, purportedly-discounted price at which Defendants regularly sell the item in the normal
8 course of business.

10 5. Third, Defendants bolster the above-referenced scheme by presenting customers at 11 their Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory stores with a written receipt which states “You
12 Saved [a specific dollar amount]” and/or “Total Discount [a specific dollar amount].” See
13 Exhibit A, Pallagrosi Receipt from Banana Republic Factory store, stating “You Saved 79.24.”
14 The statements on these receipts are false and misleading. The amount of the purported “savings”
15 listed on such receipts is simply the difference between the higher fake base price created by 16 Defendants and the lower purportedly-discounted price at which the item is regularly and 17 consistently sold by Defendants in the ordinary course of business. Thus, the purported “savings”
18 claimed on such receipts are entirely illusory. Customers are not actually saving anything. They 19 are simply buying an item at the same price at which Defendants regularly and consistently sell 20 the item in question.

21
22 6. Defendants’ policies as described herein are unlawful. Federal regulations prohibit 23 the advertising of fake former prices, “phantom” price reductions and deceptive claims of 24 percentage-off discounts which are based on inflated, fictitious “regular” prices that never actually 25 existed. See 16 C.F.R. § 233.1.

27 7. Moreover, the consumer protection laws of California, New Jersey and Florida
28 prohibit deceptive advertising, marketing, and sales practices, including advertising and selling

LAW OFFICES OF TODD M. FRIEDMAN, P.C.
21550 OXNARD ST., STE 780
WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 items at purported discounts and offering purported discounts that do not actually exist.

2 8. By advertising these purported percentage-off discounts and these fake former
3 prices, Defendants have violated California, New Jersey and Florida consumer protection laws as 4 well as federal regulations, specifically as alleged herein.

5 9. Plaintiff brings this lawsuit against Defendants to recover for the proposed classes
6 of customers of Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory stores the overcharges that they paid,
7 and to obtain for those customers the actual discounts they were promised and entitled to receive
8 but did not due to Defendants' deceptive practices.

10 PARTIES

11 10. Plaintiff Michael Pallagrosi is an individual and citizen of Burlington County, New 12 Jersey. During the class period, Plaintiff Pallagrosi purchased goods from Defendants' Banana
13 Republic Factory stores located in Florida and New Jersey, was subjected to the practices alleged 14 herein, and suffered an ascertainable loss and monetary damages as a result of Defendants'
15 unlawful conduct alleged herein.

16 11. Defendant The Gap, Inc. is a for-profit corporation formed and existing under the 17 laws of the State of Delaware with its principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor,
18 San Francisco, California 94105, and thus is a citizen of Delaware and California.

19 12. Defendant Gap (Apparel) LLC is a for-profit limited liability company formed and 20 existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business at 2 Folsom
21 Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105, and thus is a citizen of California.

22 13. Defendant Gap International Sales, Inc. is a for-profit corporation formed and 23 existing under the laws of the State of Delaware with its principal place of business at 2 Folsom
24 Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105, and thus is a citizen of Delaware and
25 California.

26 14. Defendant Banana Republic, LLC is a for-profit limited liability company formed 27

1 and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware with its principal place of business at 2 Folsom
2 Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105, and thus is a citizen of Delaware and
3 California.

4 15. Defendant Banana Republic (Apparel) LLC is a for-profit limited liability company
5 formed and existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business
6 at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105, and thus is a citizen of California.

7 16. All Defendants have a parent-subsiary relationship, in that Defendants Gap
8 (Apparel) LLC, Gap International Sales, Inc., Banana Republic, LLC, and Banana Republic
9 (Apparel) LLC are each wholly-owned subsidiaries of Defendant The Gap, Inc.

10 17. At all times during the relevant class period, Defendants together owned and 11 operated, and continue to own and operate, hundreds of Banana Republic Factory retail stores and 12 Gap Factory retail stores throughout the United States.

13 18. All uniform policies alleged herein, including the advertisement of fake former 14 prices on price tags, uniformly-worded signs claiming fictitious percentage-off discounts of the 15 type of which Exhibit B is an example, and written receipts bearing the false claim that “You
16 Saved [a specified dollar amount]” as exemplified by Exhibit A, exist at all Gap Factory stores
17 and Banana Republic Factory stores in the United States. See, e.g., Exhibit C, Photograph of 18 similar signs in Gap Factory stores, and exemplar receipt from Gap Factory store containing 19 identical “You Saved [a specified dollar amount]” language. Because their policies are in force
20 at both Gap Factory stores and Banana Republic Factory stores, it is clear that these uniform
21 policies originated with, emanated from, and were endorsed and ratified by, the parent corporation
22 which owns and manages both sets of stores: Defendant The Gap, Inc. Indeed, Gap, Inc. is the 23 only entity empowered to command that these same policies be followed by its subsidiaries at both 24 Gap Factory stores and Banana Republic Factory stores.

25 19. Defendants jointly operate the Gap Factory stores and Banana Republic Factory
26
27
28

1 stores out of their headquarters in California, which operation entails, inter alia, the creation and
 2 implementation of the advertising, marketing, and sales policies described herein, including the 3 sale of items.

4 20. Defendants created the policies and procedures described herein and, at all times
 5 during the relevant class period, participated in, endorsed, implemented, and performed the 6 conduct alleged herein.

7 21. Under the principles articulated in cases such as Pecover v. Elec. Arts Inc., No. C
 8 08-2820 VRW, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 140632, at *49-52 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 21, 2010) and Keilholtz
 9 v. Lennox Hearth Products Inc., 268 F.R.D. 330 (ND Cal 2010), the application of California law
 10 to the claims of all class members, regardless of where the class member's purchase occurred, is 11 appropriate because:
 12

- 13 a. The uniform policies and procedures described herein were created by 14 Defendants at their headquarters and principal place of business at 2 Folsom
 15 Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105;
- 16 b. The instructions and orders needed to carry out the nationwide uniform
 17 scheme alleged herein were issued by Defendants from their headquarters and 18 principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco,
 19 California 94105;
- 20 c. The amounts of the fake base prices and false percentage-off discounts
 21 described in this complaint were created by Defendants at their headquarters
 22 and principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, 23 California 94105; and
- 24 d. The individual Gap Factory stores and Banana Republic Factory stores had 25 no discretion in implementing this nationwide policy and had no choice but to 26 follow the instructions and policies formulated by Defendants at their 27 headquarters and principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor,
 28 San Francisco, California 94105.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

26 22. This Court has in personam jurisdiction over the Defendants because, inter alia,
 27 Defendants: (a) are headquartered in the State of California; (b) transacted business in this state;
 28 (c) maintained continuous and systematic contacts in this state prior to and during the class period;

LAW OFFICES OF TODD M. FRIEDMAN, P.C.
21550 OXNARD ST., STE 780
WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 and (d) purposefully availed themselves of the benefits of doing business in this state.
2 Accordingly, the Defendants maintain minimum contacts with this state which are more than 3 sufficient to subject them to service of process and to comply with due process of law.

4 23. This Court has federal jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action by virtue
5 of the fact that this is a proposed class action where the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest
6 and costs, exceeds $5,000,000 and Plaintiff and at least one Defendant are citizens of different 7 states.

8 24. Venue is proper in the County of San Francisco because Defendants are citizens of 9 this County, in that the principal place of business and headquarters for each Defendant is located 10 in this County.

11 THE UNIFORM POLICY WHICH GIVES RISE TO THE CLASS CLAIMS

12 25. One of the most effective techniques in advertising is for a seller to offer customers
13 a reduction from either the seller's own former price for an item, or the price at which the item or 14 an equivalent item is sold by a competitor.

15 26. This technique is widely used because sellers know the truth of the old adage
16 "everyone loves a bargain" and understand that a product's "regular" price – the price at which a
17 product is generally sold in the marketplace – matters to consumers.

18 27. Indeed, numerous studies show that a consumer is much more likely to purchase
19 an item if they are told that it is being offered at a price less than the price at which the seller or its 20 competitors have previously sold the product; where they are being told that an item is worth much
21 more than what they are currently being asked to pay for it.

22 28. For example, a well-respected study by Dhruv Grewal & Larry D. Compeau,
23 "Comparative Price Advertising: Informative or Deceptive?", 11 J. of Pub. Pol'y & Mktg. 52, 55
24 (Spring 1992), concludes that "[b]y creating an impression of savings, the presence of a higher
25
26
27
28

1 reference price enhances [consumers’] perceived value and willingness to buy [a] product.”

2 29. Numerous other articles and studies have reached the same conclusion. See
3 Compeau & Grewal, in “Comparative Price Advertising: Believe It Or Not”, J. of Consumer
4 Affairs, Vol. 36, No. 2, at 287 (Winter 2002) (noting that “decades of research support the
5 conclusion that advertised reference prices do indeed enhance consumers’ perceptions of 6 the value of the deal” and concluding that “[c]onsumers are influenced by comparison
7 prices even when the stated reference prices are implausibly high.”); Joan Lindsey-Mullikin
8 & Ross D. Petty, “Marketing Tactics Discouraging Price Search: Deception and Competition”, 9 64 J. of Bus. Research 67 (January 2011) (concluding that “[r]eference price ads strongly
10 influence consumer perceptions of value”); Praveen K. Kopalle & Joan Lindsey-Mullikin, “The 11 Impact of External Reference Price On Consumer Price Expectations”, 79 J. of Retailing 225 12 (2003), (concluding that “research has shown that retailer-supplied reference prices clearly
13 enhance buyers’ perceptions of value” and “have a significant impact on consumer
14 purchasing decisions.”); Dr. Jerry B. Gotlieb & Dr. Cyndy Thomas Fitzgerald, “An Investigation
15 Into the Effects of Advertised Reference Prices On the Price Consumers Are Willing To Pay For 16 the Product”, 6 J. of App’d Bus. Res. 1 (1990) (concluding that “consumers are likely to be 17 misled into a willingness to pay a higher price for a product simply because the product has 18 a higher reference price.”)

19
21 30. Where the former prices listed by the seller are genuine – where the buyer really is
22 getting an item for a lower price than the one at which it is ordinarily sold – then the “bargain”
23 promised in a seller’s advertising may be real.

24
25 31. Unfortunately, the case at bar is not such a case.

26 32. The case at bar involves a tactic designed to trick consumers into thinking they
27 are getting a “bargain,” based on the use of fictitious former prices which do not reflect a real price
28 at which the items in question have ever actually been sold by either Defendants or their

LAW OFFICES OF TODD M. FRIEDMAN, P.C.
21550 OXNARD ST., STE 780
WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 competitors in the marketplace; a fake former price whose only purpose is to convince consumers
2 that Defendants’ current price for the item is so far below the price ordinarily charged for such an
3 item that they cannot pass the “bargain” up.

4 33. The law recognizes the abuses which can flow from the use of such fictitious
5 former prices and fake claims of “discounts” based on such prices.

6 34. For example, 16 C.F.R. § 233.1. specifically prohibits the advertising of false,
7 “phantom” price reductions and discounts off inflated, fictitious “regular” prices that never 8 actually existed. See 16 C.F.R. § 233.1., stating:

10 “§ 233.1 Former price comparisons.

11 (a) One of the most commonly used forms of bargain advertising is to 12 offer a reduction from the advertiser’s own former price for an article.
13 If the former price is the actual, bona fide price at which the article was 14 offered to the public on a regular basis for a reasonably substantial
15 period of time, it provides a legitimate basis for the advertising of a price
16 comparison. Where the former price is genuine, the bargain being 17 advertised is a true one. If, on the other hand, the former price being 18 advertised is not bona fide but fictitious – for example, where an 19 artificial, inflated price was established for the purpose of enabling the 20 subsequent offer of a large reduction – the ‘bargain’ being advertised is 21 a false one; the purchaser is not receiving the unusual value he expects.
22 In such a case, the ‘reduced’ price is, in reality, probably just the seller’s
23 regular price.

24 (b) A former price is not necessarily fictitious merely because no sales
25 at the advertised price were made. The advertiser should be especially 26 careful, however, in such a case, that the price is one at which the product
27 was openly and actively offered for sale, for a reasonably substantial 28 period of time, in the recent, regular course of his business, honestly and in good faith – and, of course, not for the purpose of establishing a fictitious higher price on which a deceptive comparison might be based.
And the advertiser should scrupulously avoid any implication that a former price is a selling, not an asking price (for example, by use of such language as, ‘Formerly sold at $___’), unless substantial sales at that price were actually made.

26 * * *

27 (d) Other illustrations of fictitious price comparisons could be given. An 28 advertiser might use a price at which he never offered the article at all;
he might feature a price which was not used in the regular course of

1 business, or which was not used in the recent past but at some remote
 2 period in the past, without making disclosure of that fact; he might use
 3 a price that was not openly offered to the public, or that was not maintained for a reasonable length of time, but was immediately
reduced.” (emphasis added)

4 35. 16 C.F.R. § 233.1(b) makes clear that, any statement describing a purported
 5 former price is deceptive unless the purported price comparison is based on a real price at which
 6 the item in question was actually sold in the recent past for a substantial period of time. See 16
 7 C.F.R. § 233.1(b): requiring “that the price is one at which the product was openly and 8 actively offered for sale, for a reasonably substantial period of time, in the recent, regular 9 course of his business...”

10 36. California law also recognizes that the tactic of using a false comparison price to 11 lure consumers into believing they are getting a discount is a misleading and deceptive sale tactic,
 12 actionable. See Hinojos v. Kohl’s Corp., 718 F.3d 1098, 1101 (9th Cir. 2013):

13 “Most consumers have, at some point, purchased merchandise that was 14 marketed as being ‘on sale’ because the proffered discount seemed too
 15 good to pass up. Retailers, well aware of consumers’ susceptibility to a 16 bargain, therefore have an incentive to lie to their customers by falsely
 17 claiming that their products have previously sold at a far higher 18 ‘original’ price in order to induce customers to purchase merchandise at 19 a purportedly marked-down ‘sale’ price. *Because such practices are misleading – and effective – the California legislature has prohibited them.” (emphasis added)

20 37. Similarly, New Jersey law prohibits the use of purported discounts and false or 21 deceptive statements regarding former prices to try to induce a purchase and requires any 22 statements regarding former prices and purported discounts to be clear, truthful and accurate. See 23 e.g. N.J.A.C. § 13:45A-9.6, entitled “Pricing; prohibition on fictitious pricing and methods of 24 substantiation” which states:

25 “(a) An advertiser shall not use a fictitious former price. Use of a 26 fictitious former price will be deemed to be a violation of the [New 27 Jersey] Consumer Fraud Act.

28 (b) A former price or price range or the amount of reduction shall be

1 deemed fictitious if it cannot be substantiated, based upon proof:

- 2 1. Of a substantial number of sales of the advertised merchandise, or 3 comparable merchandise of like grade or quality made within the 4 advertiser's trade area in the regular course of business at any time
 5 within the most recent 60 days during which the advertised
 6 merchandise was available for sale prior to, or which were in fact
 7 made in the first 60 days during which the advertised merchandise
 8 was available for sale following the effective date of the 9 advertisement;
- 10 2. That the advertised merchandise, or comparable merchandise of like 11 grade or quality, was actively and openly offered for sale at that price
 12 within the advertiser's trade area in the regular course of business 13 during at least 28 days of the most recent 90 days before or after the 14 effective date of the advertisement; or
- 15 3. That the price does not exceed the supplier's cost plus the usual and 16 customary mark-up used by the advertising merchant in the actual 17 sale of the advertised merchandise or comparable merchandise of 18 like grade or quality in the recent regular course of business.”
 19 (emphasis added)

20 38. Moreover, for items with a price of less than $100, N.J.A.C. §13:45A-9.3(a)(3)
 21 provides that a seller must comply with N.J.A.C. §13:45A-9.4(a)(6), which requires a seller to 22 specifically:

23 “6. Set forth with specificity when in the remote past a former price of 24 an item of merchandise was effective if it was not actively or openly
 25 offered for sale within the advertiser's trade area in the regular course 26 of business during at least 28 of the 90 days before the effective date of 27 the advertisement. In this regard, when advertising a seasonal sale, such 28 as Christmas dishes, pool supplies, outdoor furniture, etc., actual dates, specific holidays or terms such as ‘last season,’ may be used to describe when the former price was used in the remote past.” (emphasis added)

39. Similarly, Florida Statute § 501.202(2) protects consumers from “unconscionable, deceptive, or unfair acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce.” § 501.202(2). A deceptive practice is one that is “likely to mislead” consumers. Davis v. Powertel, Inc., 776
 So.2d 971, 974 (Fla. 1st DCA 2000). An unfair practice is “one that ‘offends established public policy’ and one that is ‘immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous or substantially injurious to consumers.’” Samuels v. King Motor Co. of Boca Raton, 782 So.2d 489, 499 (Fla. 4th DCA

LAW OFFICES OF TODD M. FRIEDMAN, P.C.
21550 OXNARD ST., STE 780
WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 2001).

2 40. Neither the federal regulations, nor California law, nor Florida law, nor New Jersey
3 law permits a seller to simply invent a fake former price to use in its advertising. Rather, a 4 purported former price advertised by the seller must be a real price at which someone in the 5 seller's trade area actually offered the item for sale for a substantial period of time in the recent 6 past.

7 41. Defendants' uniform policy ignores these principles.

8 42. Defendants have a uniform policy of creating and listing an artificially high fake
9 base price on the price tag of every item offered for sale in their Banana Republic Factory stores
10 and Gap Factory stores throughout the United States; a price which purports to be each item's
11 original or regular, non-discounted price.
12

13 43. These fake base prices are created by Defendants, using a set of uniform criteria
14 created by Defendants, and are not based on any real prices at which the items in question are 15 actually sold or offered for sale by Defendants or their competitors.
16

17 44. These fake base prices are much higher than the prices at which the items in 18 question are actually sold or offered for sale by Defendants or their competitors in the regular 19 course of business.

20 45. Such fake base prices are used by Defendants to create the misleading impression
21 in the minds of consumers that the prices of the items have been "discounted" down from the 22 higher fake base prices when Defendants offer to sell these items at a price far lower than the fake
23 base price, often at a purported "50% OFF" discount. See Exhibit B, Sample "50% OFF" signs
24
26
27
28

1 used by Defendants.

2 46. In actuality, however, the lower, purportedly discounted prices are the prices at 3 which Defendants consistently and regularly sell the items in question.

4 47. Put simply, under Defendants' uniform policy, the purported "discount" price is 5 actually the "real" price at which Defendants regularly and customarily sell the items.

6 48. The purported "original" price listed by Defendants is a ruse because the
7 overwhelming majority of these items are never actually sold or offered for sale at the higher fake
8 base price listed on the items' price tags for any length of time.

9 49. In a very few cases, the items are offered for sale at the fake base price, but only 10 for a very few days. In the rare cases when this is done, it is done solely to bolster Defendants'
11 claim that the item has been "discounted" when, a few days later, Defendants offer the item at a 12 drastically lower, purportedly discounted price.

13 50. The practice of offering an item for sale at a higher price for a short period of 14 time, so that a seller can then claim in its advertising that it is "discounted" when the seller lowers
15 the price a few days later, is deceptive and specifically prohibited by 16 C.F.R. § 233.1(b), which 16 provides that a statement of a claimed former price is deceptive unless "the product was openly 17 and actively offered for sale, for a reasonably substantial period of time, in the recent,
18 regular course of his business, honestly and in good faith – and, of course, not for the 19 purpose of establishing a fictitious higher price on which a deceptive comparison might be 20 based." (emphasis added)

21 51. None of the items offered for sale in Defendants' Banana Republic Factory stores
22 and Gap Factory stores are ever sold for a reasonably substantial period of time at the higher fake
23 base prices. Indeed, the overwhelming majority of the items were never sold at the higher fake
24 base price for any period of time. For all items, the prices at which the items are consistently and 25
26
27
28

1 regularly sold by Defendants are actually the lower, purportedly-discounted prices.

2 52. Defendants' deceptive scheme is bolstered by certain related uniform policies.

3 53. Using the fake base price as a starting point, Defendants then perpetually advertise
4 the items for sale on uniformly-worded signs in their Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory
5 Stores, claiming that the items are being sold for a specified percentage-off discount. See Exhibit
6 B, "50% OFF" sign in Defendants' Banana Republic Factory store; Exhibit C, "40% OFF" sign
7 in Defendants' Gap Factory store.

8 54. This practice is false and misleading because the advertised percentage-off
9 discounts on such signs – such as "50% OFF" – do not represent an actual discount.

10 55. Rather, the purported percentage-off discount listed on such signs merely 11 represents the difference between the higher fake base price created by Defendants and listed on 12 the item's price tag and the lower, purportedly-discounted price at which Defendants regularly
13 sell the item in the normal course of business.

14 56. Defendants also bolster the above-referenced scheme by presenting customers at 15 Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory stores with a written receipt which states "You
16 Saved [a specific dollar amount]" and/or "Total Discount [a specific dollar amount]." See
17 Exhibit A, Receipt from Banana Republic Factory store, stating "You Saved 79.24"; Exhibit C, 18 Exemplar receipt from Gap Factory store, stating "You Saved 6.80."

19 57. These written statements on these receipts that "You Saved" a specified dollar
20 amount are false and misleading. Again, the amount of the purported "savings" listed on such 21 receipts is simply the difference between the higher fake base price created by Defendants and
22 listed on the item's price tag and the lower price at which the item is regularly and consistently
23 sold by Defendants in the ordinary course of business.

24 58. Thus, the purported "savings" claimed on such receipts is entirely illusory.
25 Customers are not actually saving anything. They are simply buying an item at the price at which 26

1 Defendants regularly and consistently sell the item.

2 59. These exact same uniform policies described herein, including the creation and use
3 of inflated, fake former prices, signs falsely advertising a percentage-off discount from the fake
4 former prices, and receipts stating to the customer “You Saved” a specific dollar amount based 5 on the difference between the purported discount price and the fake former price, are all used at 6 all Banana Republic Factory and Gap Factory stores in the United States, without exception.

7 60. What happened to Plaintiff helps illustrate Defendants’ unlawful practices
8 described herein.

9 61. On various dates between 2011 and the present, including October 13, 2014 and 10 October 24, 2016, Plaintiff Pallagrosi made purchases at Banana Republic Factory stores in New 11 Jersey and Florida and was subjected to the practices described herein.

12 62. For example, on October 13, 2014, Plaintiff Pallagrosi purchased three pairs of 13 “CAMO SOCK”s, SKU #46326, from a Banana Republic Factory store # 1919, located at 1755
14 West Palm Beach Lakes Boulevard, West Palm Beach, Florida.

15 63. The price tag on each “CAMO SOCK” listed a purported former price of 16 “$8.50,” but each item was sold to Plaintiff at a purportedly discounted sale price of “$4.25.”
17 These claims were repeated on Plaintiff’s receipt, which listed a purported original price of 18 “$8.50” and a purported sale price of “$4.25” for each of these three items. See Exhibit A.

19 64. The rack where these items were located had above it a sign which stated “50%
20 OFF”.

21 65. Believing he was getting three items which had previously sold for $8.50 each –
22 items he therefore justifiably believed were worth $8.50 each – Plaintiff Pallagrosi purchased the 23 three items for a purportedly discounted price of $4.25 each. See Exhibit A, Pallagrosi Receipt.

24 66. Mr. Pallagrosi also purchased a pair of “AIDEN CAMO” pants on the same day
25 at the same store.
26
27
28

1 67. The price tag on the “AIDEN CAMO” pants listed a purported former price of
2 “$24.99,” but the pants were sold to Plaintiff at a purportedly discounted sale price of “$12.49.”
3 These claims were repeated on Plaintiff’s receipt, which listed a purported original price of 4 “$24.99” and a purported sale price of “$12.49.” See Exhibit A.

5 68. The “AIDEN CAMO” pants were also displayed beneath a sign that stated “50%
6 OFF.”

7 69. Believing he was getting pants which had previously sold for $24.99 –
8 pants he therefore justifiably believed were worth $24.99 – Plaintiff Pallagrosi purchased the 9 pants for a purportedly discounted price of $12.49. See Exhibit A, Pallagrosi Receipt.

10 70. This belief by Mr. Pallagrosi that he was getting items worth twice as much as he
11 was being asked to pay for them was bolstered by the receipt he was given, which stated for each 12 item “Item Discount 50%” and “You Saved 79.24”. See Exhibit A.

13 71. In actuality, the CAMO SOCK’s purchased by Mr. Pallagrosi were never sold by 14 Defendants or anyone else for $8.50 a pair.

15 72. That $8.50 price listed on the CAMO SOCK’s price tag was created by Defendants
16 and was not based on any price at which that item had ever been sold. Rather, that fake former 17 price was created to do exactly what it did: induce a customer to purchase the socks by making
18 him believe he was getting an item worth twice as much as he was currently being asked to pay 19 for it.

20 73. In actuality, the CAMO SOCK’s were not “50% OFF,” they had never been sold
21 for $8.50, and the true value of the item was, at most, the same price at which Defendants
22 consistently sold that item: $4.25.

23 74. Nor did the “AIDEN CAMO” pants purchased by Mr. Pallagrosi ever actually sell
24 for $24.99. That purported former price of $24.99 was a fake former price created by Defendants
25 and was not based on any real price at which the item was ever sold.

1 75. In actuality, the AIDEN CAMO pants were not “50% OFF,” they had never been
2 sold for $24.99, and the true value of the item was, at most, the same price at which Defendants
3 consistently sold that item: $12.49.

4 76. Thus, the statements on Mr. Pallagrosi’s receipt which stated “Item Discount
5 50%” and “You Saved 79.24” were entirely false, as Plaintiff did not actually receive either the 6 promised discount or the promised savings.

7 77. In addition, Plaintiff Pallagrosi made purchases at Banana Republic Factory stores
8 in New Jersey during the class period.

9 78. For example, Mr. Pallagrosi made purchases on October 24, 2016 at a Banana
10 Republic Factory store located at 2000 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City, New Jersey, 080401. In 11 particular, Mr. Pallagrosi purchased a pair of “Fulton Chino” pants, SKU No. 393532-141-3230,
12 for $35.69 at a Banana Republic Factory store located at 2000 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City,
13 New Jersey, 080401. These pants bore a price tag which stated they were originally sold for 14 “$59.99,” and they were displayed beneath a sign that stated “30% OFF.” In actuality, the 15 “$59.99” price listed on these pants was invented by Defendants and was not based on any price
16 at which that item had ever been sold. Rather, that fake former price was created to do exactly
17 what it did: induce a customer to purchase a shirt by making him believe he were getting an item
18 worth much more than he was currently being asked to pay for it. In actuality, these pants were 19 not “30% OFF,” they had never been sold for $59.99, and the true value of the item was, at most,
20 the same price at which Defendants consistently sold that item: $35.69.

21 79. Mr. Pallagrosi also purchased a pair of “Brushed Twill” pants, SKU No. 246950-
22 021-3230, for $35.69 at a Banana Republic Factory store located at 2000 Atlantic Avenue,
23 Atlantic City, New Jersey, 080401. These pants bore a price tag which stated they were originally 24 sold for “$69.99,” and they were displayed beneath a sign that stated “40% OFF.” In actuality,
25 the “$69.99” price listed on these pants was invented by Defendants and was not based on any 26
27
28

1 price at which that item had ever been sold. Rather, that fake former price was created to do
2 exactly what it did: induce a customer to purchase a shirt by making him believe he were getting
3 an item worth much more than he was currently being asked to pay for it. In actuality, these pants
4 were not “40% OFF,” they had never been sold for $69.99, and the true value of the item was, at 5 most, the same price at which Defendants consistently sold that item: $35.69.

6 80. Mr. Pallagrosi also purchased a “Dorito Crew” shirt, SKU No. 247201-011-
7 0002, for $5.78 at a Banana Republic Factory store located at 2000 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic
8 City, New Jersey, 080401. This shirt bore a price tag which stated it had originally sold for 9 “$16.99,” and it was displayed beneath a sign that stated “60% OFF.” In actuality, the $16.99
10 price listed on this shirt was invented by Defendants and was not based on any price at which 11 that item had ever been sold. Rather, that fake former price was created to do exactly what it
12 did: induce a customer to purchase a shirt by making him believe he were getting an item worth
13 much more than he was currently being asked to pay for it. In actuality, this shirt was not “60%
14 OFF,” it had never been sold for $16.99, and the true value of the item was, at most, the same
15 price at which Defendants consistently sold that item: $5.78.

16 81. Moreover, the quality and value of these items were lower than claimed by 17 Defendants, as they had never been sold for the claimed higher base prices listed on Defendants’
18 price tags and therefore the true worth of the items must be valued at or below the lower prices at 19 which Defendants routinely sold them.

20 82. What happened to the Plaintiff was not an accident or an isolated incident.

21 83. Rather, it was part of a series of interlocking uniform policies in which Defendants
22 engaged in a systematic scheme of false and misleading advertising, marketing, and sales practices
23 with the purpose of persuading customers to purchase items from Defendants’ Gap Factory and 24 Banana Republic Factory stores.
25
26
27
28

1 84. Plaintiff and the class members relied on Defendants' false price comparison
2 advertising; a reliance which was not only reasonable, but entirely intended by Defendants.

3 85. Indeed, empirical marketing studies have noted an incentive for retailers to engage
4 in this false and fraudulent behavior. See Comparative Price Advertising: Informative or 5 Deceptive?, Dhruv Grewal and Larry D. Compeau, Journal of Public Policy & Marketing, Vol.
6 11, No. 1, at 55-56 (Spring 1992):

8 “By creating an impression of savings, the presence of a higher reference
9 price enhances subjects' perceived value and willingness to buy the 10 product. . . . Thus, if the reference price is not truthful, a consumer may 11 be encouraged to purchase as a result of a false sense of value.”

12 86. The unlawful uniform policies alleged herein go well beyond the items that Plaintiff
13 purchased, and are applied by Defendants to every item of clothing in every one of Defendants'
14 Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory stores in the United States.

15 87. These deceptive advertising, marketing, and sales practices were kept secret, and 16 were affirmatively and fraudulently concealed from customers by Defendants throughout the class 17 period.

18 88. As a result, Plaintiff and his fellow Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory store
19 customers were unaware of Defendants' unlawful conduct and did not know they were actually
20 paying the everyday, regular prices for Defendants' products, rather than the advertised, purported 21 discount prices.

22 89. Plaintiff and the class members did not discover, nor could they have discovered
23 through reasonable diligence, that Defendants were violating the law until shortly before this 24 litigation was initially commenced, because Defendants used methods to avoid detection and to 25 conceal their violations of the law.

26 90. Defendants did not tell or otherwise inform Plaintiff or the class members that they 27 were engaged in the deceptive advertising, marketing, and sales practices alleged herein. By their 28

LAW OFFICES OF TODD M. FRIEDMAN, P.C.

1 very nature, Defendants’ unlawful practices were self-concealing.

2 91. In sum, Defendants induced Plaintiff and the class members to purchase items from 3 Defendants’ Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory stores, for Defendants’ profit, with the 4 promise of discounts that never existed, using claims of inflated, false former prices. As a result
5 of this unlawful, deceptive conduct, Plaintiff and the class members have suffered damages as set 6 forth herein.

7 CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

9 92. Class Definition: Plaintiff Pallagrosi brings this action as a class action pursuant
10 to Fed.R.Civ.P. 23, seeking damages under California law on behalf of himself and all members
11 of the following proposed class:

12 All persons who purchased any purportedly discounted item from a
13 Banana Republic Factory or Gap Factory store in the United States
14 between October 9, 2011 and the present. (hereafter the “Nationwide 15 Class”).

16 93. Sub-Class Definition: Plaintiff Pallagrosi also brings this action as a class action
17 pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 23, seeking damages under New Jersey law on behalf of himself and 18 all members of the following proposed sub-class:

19 All persons who purchased any purportedly discounted item from a 20 Banana Republic Factory or Gap Factory store in New Jersey between 21 October 9, 2011 and the present. (hereafter the “New Jersey Subclass”)

22 94. Plaintiff Pallagrosi also brings this action as a class action pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P.
23 23, seeking damages under Florida law on behalf of himself and all members of the following
24 proposed sub-class:

25 All persons who purchased any purportedly discounted item from a
26 Banana Republic Factory or Gap Factory store in Florida between 27 October 6, 2011 and the present. (hereafter the “Florida Subclass”)

28 95. The scope of the class definitions may be refined after discovery of Defendants’ and/or third party records.

1 96. Each of the classes for whose benefit this action is brought is so numerous that
2 joinder of all members is impracticable.

3 97. The exact number and identities of the persons who fit within each proposed class
4 are contained in Defendants' records and can be easily ascertained from those records.

5 98. The proposed class and subclasses are each composed of at least 10,000 persons.

6 99. Common questions of law and fact exist as to each class member.

7 100. All claims in this action arise exclusively from uniform policies and procedures of 8 Defendants as outlined herein.

9 101. No violations alleged in this Complaint are a result of any individualized oral
10 communications or individualized interaction of any kind between class members and Defendants
11 or anyone else.

12 102. There are common questions of law and fact affecting the rights of the class
13 members, including, inter alia, the following:

- 14 a. whether the uniform advertising, marketing, and sales practices alleged herein
15 exist;
- 16 b. whether Defendants ever sold items or offered items for sale at their listed base
17 prices;
- 18 c. whether Defendants' purported percentage-off discounts reflected actual savings or 19 reductions;
- 20 d. whether Defendants deceptively advertised every day, regular prices of their items 21 as "discount" or "sale" prices;
- 22 e. the length of time Defendants engaged in the practices alleged herein;
- 23 f. whether the application of California law is appropriate to the claims of all class
24 members, regardless of where the actual purchases occurred, due to the fact that the 25 scheme in question, including the amount of the fake prices and purported 26
27
28

1 percentage-off discounts, was created in, and emanated from, Defendants'
2 headquarters and primary place of business in California;

3 g. whether the alleged practices violate California law; and

4 h. the nature and extent of the injury to the classes and the measure of class-wide 5 damages.

6 103. Plaintiff is a member of the class and sub-classes he seeks to represent.

7 104. The claims of Plaintiff are not only typical of all class members, they are identical.

8 105. All claims of Plaintiff and the classes arise from the same course of conduct, policy
9 and procedures as outlined herein.

10 106. All claims of Plaintiff and the classes are based on the exact same legal theories.

11 107. Plaintiff seek the same relief for himself as for every other class member.

12 108. Plaintiff has no interest antagonistic to or in conflict with the classes.

13 109. Plaintiff will thoroughly and adequately protect the interests of the classes, having 14 retained qualified and competent legal counsel to represent himself and the classes.

15 110. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient
16 adjudication of the controversy since, inter alia, the damages suffered by each class member were 17 not great enough to enable them to maintain separate suits against Defendants and in most, if not 18 all, instances were less than $500 per person.

19 111. Common questions will predominate, and there will be no unusual manageability
20 issues.

21 112. Without the proposed class action, Defendants will likely retain the benefit of their
22 wrongdoing and will continue the complained-of practices, which will result in further damages
23 to Plaintiff and class members.

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF THE CALIFORNIA CONSUMERS LEGAL REMEDIES ACT, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, et seq.

(On Behalf of the Nationwide Class)

113. Plaintiff repeats and incorporates by reference all previous paragraphs of this Complaint as if set forth fully herein.

114. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of all other nationwide class members who purchased items from Gap Factory stores and Banana Republic Factory stores pursuant to the California Consumers Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code § 1750, et seq. (the “CCLRA”), because the actions of Defendants, and their conduct described herein, constitute transactions that have resulted in the sale of goods to consumers.

115. Regardless of where any purchase occurred, California law applies to the claims of Plaintiff and all nationwide class members under the principles articulated in cases such as Pecover v. Elec. Arts Inc., No. C08-2820 VRW, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 140632, at *49-52 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 21, 2010) and Keilholtz v Lennox Hearth Products Inc., 268 F.R.D. 330 (ND Cal 2010) because:

- a. The uniform policies and procedures described herein were created by Defendants at their headquarters and principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105;
- b. The instructions and orders needed to carry out the nationwide uniform scheme alleged herein were issued by Defendants from their headquarters and principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105;
- c. The amounts of the fake base prices and false percentage-off discounts described in this complaint were created by Defendants at their headquarters and principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105; and
- d. The individual Gap Factory stores and Banana Republic stores had no discretion in implementing this nationwide policy and had no choice but to follow the instructions and policies formulated by Defendants at their headquarters and principal place of business at 2 Folsom Street, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California 94105.

WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 116. Plaintiff and each class member are “consumers” as defined by California Civil
2 Code § 1761(d).

3 117. The items offered for sale at Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory stores are
4 “goods” within the meaning of California Civil Code § 1761(a). The sale of these items to Plaintiff
5 and the class were “transactions” within the meaning of 1761(e). Defendants intended to, and did
6 in fact, sell these items to Plaintiff and the classes.

7 118. Defendants violated the CCLRA in at least the following respects:

- 8
- 9 a. in violation of § 1770(a)(5), Defendants represented that the items for sale 10 had characteristics which they do not have (i.e., that the items have an 11 “original” price when they do not, and are being offered for sale at a 12 discounted price when they are not);
 - 13 b. in violation of § 1770(a)(9), Defendants advertised the items with intent not 14 to sell them as advertised (i.e., the items were advertised as being discounted
15 when Defendants intended to, and did in fact, sell them at their regular 16 prices);
 - 17 c. in violation of § 1770(a)(13), Defendants have made false and misleading
18 statements of fact concerning the existence and amounts of price reductions 19 (i.e., by advertising discounts and offering sale prices that did not exist);
and
 - 20 d. in violation of § 1770(a)(16), Defendants represented that the items have 21 been supplied in accordance with previous representations (i.e., that they 22 were sold at a discounted price) when they were not.

23 119. By the acts alleged herein, Defendants have violated the CCLRA. Specifically,
24 Defendants:

- 25 a. Set and advertised an arbitrary base price for items, which price was 26 represented to be the item’s “original” or “regular” price despite the fact
27 that such items were never sold or offered for sale at that price;
- 28 b. Continuously advertised and offered items for sale at a discount off their purported base prices, when the “discounted” sale prices did not actually represent the advertised savings since the items were never offered for sale at their base prices;

- 1 c. Represented that items were on sale and offered at discounted prices when
2 in fact the items were being offered for sale at their everyday, regular prices;
3 and
4 d. Charged their customers the full, regular price for the items rather providing 5 the advertised sale or discounted price.

6 131. Defendants knew, or should have known, that their representations, advertisements,
7 and actions were false and misleading.

8 132. These acts and omissions constitute unfair, deceptive, and misleading business
9 practices in violation of California Civil Code § 1770(a).

10 133. On September 6, 2017, Plaintiff sent notice to Defendants in writing, by certified
11 mail, of the violations alleged herein and demanded that Defendants remedy those violations
12 with respect to themselves and the classes.

13 134. To date, Defendants have not remedied their practices complained of herein.

14 135. Defendants' conduct was malicious, fraudulent, and wanton in that Defendants
15 intentionally and knowingly provided misleading information to the public.

16 136. Plaintiff and each nationwide class member were injured in fact and lost money
17 as a result of Defendants' deceptive conduct.

18 137. Plaintiff now seeks actual, punitive, and statutory damages pursuant to the CCLRA
19 for themselves and the nationwide classes.

20
21 COUNT II

22 VIOLATION OF THE NEW JERSEY CONSUMER FRAUD ACT
23 N.J.S.A. 56:8-1, et seq.

24 (On Behalf of the New Jersey Subclass)

25 138. Plaintiff repeats and incorporates by reference all previous paragraphs of this
26 Complaint as if fully set forth herein.
27
28

1 139. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of all other New Jersey
2 subclass members who made purchases in Defendants' Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory
3 stores in New Jersey.

4 140. The New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, N.J.S.A. 56:8-1, et seq. (the "NJCF"),
5 applies to all sales made by Defendants to New Jersey consumers from Defendants' Gap Factory
6 and Banana Republic Factory stores.

7 141. The NJCFA was enacted to protect consumers against sharp and unconscionable
8 commercial practices by persons engaged in the sale of goods or services. See Marascio v.
9 Campanella, 689 A.2d 852, 857 (App. Div. 1997).

10 142. The NJCFA is a remedial statute which the New Jersey Supreme Court has 11 repeatedly held must be construed liberally in favor of the consumer to accomplish its deterrent 12 and protective purposes. See Furst v. Einstein Moomjy, Inc., 860 A.2d 435, 441 (N.J. 2004) ("The 13 [NJCFA] is remedial legislation that we construe liberally to accomplish its broad purpose
14 of safeguarding the public.").

15 143. "The available legislative history demonstrates that the [NJCFA] was intended
16 to be one of the strongest consumer protection laws in the nation." New Mea Const. Corp. v.
17 Harper, 497 A.2d 534, 543 (App. Div.1985).

18 144. For this reason, the "history of the [NJCFA] is one of constant expansion of 19 consumer protection." Kavky v. Herbalife Int'l of Am., 820 A.2d 677, 681-82 (App. Div 2003).

20 145. The NJCFA was intended to protect consumers "by eliminating sharp practices
21 and dealings in the marketing of merchandise and real estate." Lemelledo v. Beneficial Mgmt.
22 Corp., 696 A.2d 546, 550 (N.J. 1997).

23 146. Specifically, N.J.S.A. 56:8-2 prohibits "unlawful practices..." which are defined 24 as:
26
27
28

1 “The act, use or employment of any unconscionable commercial
 2 practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, misrepresentation, or the
 3 knowing, concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact
 4 with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or 5 omission whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or 6 damaged thereby.”

7 147. The catch-all term “unconscionable commercial practice” was added to the 8 NJCFA by amendment in 1971 to ensure that the Act covered, inter alia, “incomplete
 9 disclosures.” Skeer v. EMK Motors, Inc., 455 A.2d 508, 512 (App.Div. 1982).

10 148. In describing what constitutes an “unconscionable commercial practice,” the 11 New Jersey Supreme Court has noted that it is an amorphous concept designed to establish a broad 12 business ethic. See Cox v. Sears Roebuck & Co., 647 A.2d 454, 462 (N.J. 1994).

13 149. In order to state a cause of action under the NJCFA, a plaintiff does not need to 14 show reliance by the consumer. See Varacallo v. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 752 A.2d 807
 15 (App. Div. 2000); Gennari v. Weichert Co. Realtors, 691 A.2d 350 (N.J. 1997) (holding that 16 reliance is not required in suits under the NJCFA because liability results from 17 “misrepresentations whether ‘any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged 18 thereby”).

19 150. Rather, the NJCFA requires merely a causal nexus between the false statement
 20 and the purchase, not actual reliance. See Lee v. Carter-Reed Co., L.L.C., 4 A.3d 561, 577 (2010)
 21 (“causation under the [NJCFA] is not the equivalent of reliance”).

22 151. As stated by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Lee, 4 A.3d at 580: “It bears
 23 repeating that the [NJCFA] does not require proof of reliance, but only a causal connection
 24 between the unlawful practice and ascertainable loss.”

25 152. By the acts alleged herein, Defendants have violated the NJCFA. Specifically,
 26 Defendants:
 27
 28

- 1 a. Set and advertised an arbitrary base price for numerous items in their stores, which
2 price was represented to be the item’s “original” or “regular” price despite the fact
3 that such items were never sold or offered for sale at that price;
- 4 b. Continuously advertised and offered items for sale at a discount off their purported
5 base prices, when the “discounted” sale prices did not actually represent the 6 advertised savings since the items were never offered for sale at their base prices;
- 8 c. Represented that items were on sale and offered at discounted prices when in fact 9 the items were being offered for sale at their everyday, regular prices; and
- 10 d. Charged their customers the full, regular price for the items, without providing the 11 advertised percentage-off discount.

12 153. These uniform practices by Defendants constitute sharp and unconscionable
13 commercial practices relating to the sale of goods in violation of the NJCFA, N.J.S.A. § 56:8-1, et 14 seq.

15 154. As alleged herein, Defendants have engaged in deceptive conduct which creates a 16 likelihood of confusion or misunderstanding.
17

18 155. These actions also constitute “omission[s] of any material fact with intent that
19 others rely upon such concealment,” as Defendants did not inform Plaintiff and the New Jersey
20 sub-class members that the items offered for sale were not actually discounted at all, but rather 21 were being sold at their everyday, regular prices. Defendants purposefully omitted this 22 information so that their customers would believe that they were getting a discounted price on the 23 items they purchased from Defendants, when in fact they were not.
24

25 156. As such, Defendants have acted with knowledge that their conduct was deceptive
26 and with intent that such conduct deceive purchasers.

27 157. Further, the affirmative statements by Defendants regarding the fake former prices
28

LAW OFFICES OF TODD M. FRIEDMAN, P.C.
21550 OXNARD ST., STE 780
WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 of items, and amount of the purported percentage-off discounts, and the written statements on
 2 customer receipts that “You Saved [a specified dollar amount]” and/or “Total Discount [a
 3 specified dollar amount]” were all false, affirmative statements of fact, since the items in question
 4 were never sold at the purported former price and the purported “sale” price was actually
 5 Defendants’ regular price for the item.

6 158. Moreover, because Defendants’ conduct described herein is a violation of both
 7 federal and New Jersey state regulations, such conduct constitutes a per se violation of the NJCFA,
 8 N.J.S.A. § 56:8-1, et seq.

9 159. Specifically, Defendants’ conduct violates 16 C.F.R. § 233.1 in that the purported
 10 “original” prices of the items were “not bona fide but fictitious” under 16 C.F.R. § 233.1 because 11 the items were never actually sold or offered for sale at those prices. Thus, the purported
 12 “reduced” prices offered by Defendants were “in reality ... [Defendants’] regular price[s]” and 13 “the ‘bargain[s]’ being advertised” by Defendants were “false.” 16 C.F.R. § 233.1.
 14

15 160. Defendants’ conduct also violated both N.J.A.C. 13:45A-9.3(a)(3) and 16 13:45A-9.4(a)(5) and (6). These regulations require, inter alia, that a seller advertising a purported 17 percentage “off” discount and/or price comparison must affirmatively state in writing the basis for 18 the purported discount and the source of the price which is being used for comparison, including 19 whether that price was previously charged by the seller or its competitors and when and where that 20 former price was previously charged. Defendants clearly did not do any of this.
 21

22 161. Plaintiff and the New Jersey sub-class members reasonably and justifiably expected
 23 Defendants to comply with applicable law, but Defendants failed to do so.
 24

25 162. As a direct and proximate result of these unlawful actions by Defendants, Plaintiff
 26 and the New Jersey sub-class members have been injured and have suffered an ascertainable loss
 27 of money.
 28

163. As with other terms of the NJCFA, the term “ascertainable loss” is to be construed

1 liberally in favor of the consumer in order to carry out the NJCFA’s broad remedial purposes. Cox
 2 v. Sears Roebuck & Co., 138 N.J. 2, 21-22 (1994); In Union Ink Co., Inc. v. AT&T Corp., 352
 3 N.J. Super. 617, 646 (App. Div. 2002) (holding that the ascertainable loss “requirement has been
 4 broadly defined as embracing more than a monetary loss”).

5 164. The NJCFA does not require a plaintiff to have suffered any out-of-pocket loss.

6 See Union Ink, 352 N.J. Super. at 646:

 8 “a victim of consumer fraud must prove an ‘ascertainable loss,’ N.J.S.A.
 9 56:8-19, but that requirement has been broadly defined as embracing
 10 more than a monetary loss.” (emphasis added)

11 165. A consumer has experienced an “ascertainable loss” within the meaning of the NJCFA whenever the consumer fails to receive the bargain which was promised by the seller.

12 See International Union v. Merck & Co., 384 N.J. Super. 275, 291 (App. Div. 2006):

 14 “Ascertainable loss ‘has been broadly defined as more than a monetary 15 loss’ and encompasses situations where ‘a consumer receives less than 16 what was promised.’” (emphasis added)

17 166. Indeed, in Furst v. Einstein Moomjy, 182 N.J. 1 (2004), the New Jersey Supreme Court rejected the argument that the concept of “ascertainable loss” under the NJCFA is limited to 18 the current out-of-pocket dollar loss suffered by the consumer and held that the term included a 19 situation where a consumer had not received the benefit of a discount promised by the seller. See 20 Furst, 192 N.J. at 13-14:

 22 “In light of the Legislature’s clear intent [in passing the Consumer Fraud
 23 Act], it would be incongruous to provide consumers with a form of 24 damages less than what is available in an ordinary breach-of-contract
 25 case. The ‘expectation interest’ of the consumer who purchases
 26 merchandise at a discount is the benefit of the bargain. The statute 27 cannot be construed to allow an offending merchant to benefit from his 28 own deception.” (emphasis added)

167. Plaintiff suffered an ascertainable loss within the meaning of the NJCFA

1 when he failed to receive the full benefit of the purported discount offered by Defendants and when
2 he was lulled into making purchases by the promise of the illusory discounts promised by
3 Defendants.

4 168. For example, Plaintiff Pallagrosi was promised by Defendants that he was 5 receiving a “60% Off” discount on his purchase of a “Dorito Crew” shirt and that, for the sum of 6 $5.78, he would receive a shirt that had previously sold for $16.99 and which was worth $16.99.
7 Indeed, the receipt which Defendants gave to Plaintiff Pallagrosi specifically and expressly stated
8 “Item Discount 60% -10.19.”

10 169. As outlined herein, Plaintiff Pallagrosi did not receive the benefit of the promised 11 bargain. He did not receive the promised 60% discount, since there was no discount; the 12 merchandise was being sold at Defendants’ normal, everyday prices. Plaintiff Pallagrosi did not 13 save $10.19, as stated on his receipt, since he paid $5.78 for a shirt that was consistently and 14 regularly sold by Defendants for $5.78. In exchange for his payment of $5.78, Plaintiff Pallagrosi
15 did not receive a shirt worth $16.99, as promised by Defendants. Rather, the shirt was not worth
16 $16.99 and its value is, at most, merely the price at which it was regularly and consistently sold by 17 Defendants: $5.78.
18

19 170. Moreover, Plaintiff Pallagrosi would not have made any purchase from 20 Defendants on the day in question but for the false statement by Defendants that the shirt had 21 previously sold for $16.99, that he was receiving a 60% discount, and that the value of the shirt
22 was more than twice what he was being asked to pay for it. Thus, Plaintiff Pallagrosi’s entire 23 payment of $5.78 to Defendants was a loss caused by Defendants’ misconduct.
24

25 171. Plaintiff would purchase items from Gap Factory and Banana Republic
26 stores in the future if he knew that the purported % “off” discounts and purported price
27 comparisons listed in Defendants’ stores were truthful and accurate.
28

172. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 56:8-19 of the NJCFA, Plaintiff seeks, inter alia, actual

1 damages and treble damages for himself and the New Jersey sub-class.

2 COUNT III

3 VIOLATION OF THE NEW JERSEY TRUTH IN CONSUMER CONTRACT,
4 WARRANTY AND NOTICE ACT, N.J.S.A. § 56:12-14, et seq.

5 (On Behalf of the New Jersey Subclass)

6 173. Plaintiff repeats and incorporates by reference all previous paragraphs of this
7 Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

8 174. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of all other subclass members
9 who were customers of Defendants' Gap Factory and Banana Republic Factory stores in New 10 Jersey.

11 175. Plaintiff and the New Jersey subclass members are "consumers" within the meaning
12 of N.J.S.A. §§ 56:12-15 and 16.

13 176. Defendants are "sellers" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. §§ 56:12-15 and 16.

14 177. The signs, price tags and written receipts described herein were consumer
15 "notices," "signs" and "warranties" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. §§ 56:12-15 and 16.

16 178. By the acts alleged herein, Defendants have violated N.J.S.A. § 56:12-16 because,
17 in the course of Defendants' business, Defendants have presented written consumer notices, signs
18 and warranties to Plaintiff and the New Jersey subclass members which contained provisions that 19 violated their clearly established legal rights under state law and federal regulations, within the 20 meaning of N.J.S.A. § 56:12-15.

21 179. The price tags, signs and written receipts as described herein violated the clearly-
22 established rights of Plaintiff and the New Jersey sub-class members under 16 C.F.R. § 233.1 to
23 be free of false purported discounts and the use of fictitious former prices in advertising, as well
24 as their rights under N.J.A.C. 13:45A-9.3(a)(3) and 13:45A-9.4(a)(5) and (6), which require a
25 seller advertising a purported percentage "off" discount and/or a price comparison to affirmatively

1 state in writing the basis for the discount and the source of the price which is being used for
2 comparison, including whether that price was charged by the seller or its competitors and when
3 and where that former price was previously charged.

4 180. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. § 56:12-17, Plaintiff seeks a statutory penalty of $100 for each
5 New Jersey sub-class member, as well as actual damages and attorneys’ fees and costs.

6 COUNT IV

7 VIOLATION OF THE FLORIDA DECEPTIVE AND UNFAIR
8 TRADE PRACTICES ACT (“FDUTPA”)

9 Fla. Stat. § 501.201, et seq.

10 (On Behalf of the Florida Subclass)

11 181. Plaintiff Pallagrosi repeats and incorporates by reference all previous paragraphs of 12 this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

13 182. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of the other members of the 14 Florida Subclass.

15 183. Florida’s Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act (FDUTPA), sections
16 501.201-.213, Florida Statutes is intended to “protect the consuming public and legitimate 17 business enterprises from those who engage in unfair methods of competition, or 18 unconscionable, deceptive, or unfair acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or
19 commerce.” § 501.202(2). See also Delgado v. J.W. Courtesy Pontiac GMC-Truck, Inc., 693
20 So.2d 602, 605-06 (Fla. 2d DCA 1997) (discussing the purpose of FDUTPA in light of its 21 legislative history).

22 184. Under the FDUTPA a deceptive practice is one that is “likely to mislead”
23 consumers. Davis v. Powertel, Inc., 776 So.2d 971, 974 (Fla. 1st DCA 2000).

24 185. Under the FDUTPA, an unfair practice is “one that ‘offends established public
25
26
27
28

WOODLAND HILLS, CA 91367

1 policy’ and one that is ‘immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous or substantially
2 injurious to consumers.’” Samuels v. King Motor Co. of Boca Raton, 782 So.2d 489, 499 (Fla.
3 4th DCA 2001).

4 186. The FDUTPA affords civil private causes of action for both declaratory and 5 injunctive relief and for damages.

6 187. With respect to the recovery of damages, FDUTPA provides: In any action brought
7 by a person who has suffered a loss as a result of a violation of this part, such person may recover
8 actual damages, plus attorney’s fees and court costs as provided in s. 501.2105.

9 188. A consumer claim for damages under FDUTPA has three elements: (1) a deceptive
10 act or unfair practice; (2) causation; and (3) actual damages. See Chicken Unlimited, Inc. v.
11 Bockover, 374 So.2d 96, 97 (Fla. 2d DCA 1979); Gen. Motors Acceptance Corp. v. Laesser, 718
12 So.2d 276, 277 (Fla. 4th DCA 1998); Macias v. HBC of Fla., Inc., 694 So.2d 88, 90 (Fla. 3d DCA 13 1997).

14 189. The standard for determining the actual damages recoverable under FDUTPA is 15 well-defined in the case law as the difference between the promised value and the actual value of 16 the item delivered. Rollins, Inc. v. Heller, 454 So.2d 580, 585 (Fla. 3d DCA 1984)(“[T]he 17 measure of actual damages is the difference in the market value of the product or service in 18 the condition in which it was delivered and its market value in the condition in which it 19 should have been delivered according to the contract of the parties.”).

20 190. Mr. Pallagrosi and the Florida Subclass members have clearly suffered actual 21 recoverable damages within the meaning of the FDUTPA because the goods sold and delivered by 22 Defendants to them had a market value far less than what Defendants had expressly represented
23 and promised they would receive.

24 191. For example, Plaintiff Pallagrosi was promised by Defendants in writing that for a 25
26
27
28

1 payment of $12.49, he would receive from Defendants an “AIDEN CAMO” pants which had
 2 previously sold for “$24.99” and which had a market value of $24.99. See Exhibit A. In actuality,
 3 the “AIDEN CAMO” pants purchased by Plaintiff Pallagrosi from Defendants had never been sold
 4 by anyone for $24.99, the pants were not worth $24.99 and their market value was no higher than 5 the $12.49 for which Defendants routinely sold this item.

6 192. Indeed, it is specifically alleged that both the CAMO SOCK’s and the AIDEN
 7 CAMO pants purchased by Plaintiff had a market value that was less than the prices Plaintiff paid
 8 for those items, which value may be ascertained through discovery.

10 193. The practices described herein clearly violated the FDUTPA.

11 194. The express purpose of the FDUTPA is to “protect the consuming public...from 12 those who engage in unfair methods of competition, or unconscionable, deceptive, or unfair
 13 acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce” Section 501.202(2).

14 195. The sale of the goods purchased by Mr. Pallagrosi fell within the meaning of “trade
 15 or commerce” within the scope of the FDUTPA, Sections 501.201 to 501.213.

16 196. Mr. Pallagrosi and each Florida class members are “consumer[s]” as defined by 17 Section 501.203.

18 197. Section 501.204(1), Florida Statutes declares as unlawful “unfair methods of 19 competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the 20 conduct of any trade or commerce”. Defendants violated the FDUTPA engaging in, and continuing 21 to engage in, unfair and deceptive practices and false advertising by representing a false and
 22 misleading former price (on their price tags and receipts) and corresponding purported “sale” price
 23 (on their receipts), resulting in nothing more than a false, misleading and deceptive illusion of a 24 discount (on their signs and receipts). These acts and practices are unfair because they caused Mr.
 25 Pallagrosi, and are likely to cause consumers, to falsely believe Defendants are offering values,
 26 discounts, and/or bargains from the prevailing market worth of the products sold that did not, in 27

1 fact, exist, and that Mr. Pallagrosi and Defendants' other customers did not, in fact, receive. As a
2 result, consumers—including Mr. Pallagrosi—reasonably perceived they were receiving products
3 which were regularly sold at substantially higher prices (and were, therefore, worth more) than 4 what they paid. This perception induced reasonable consumers, including Mr. Pallagrosi, to 5 purchase products from Defendants and/or pay more for such products, which they otherwise
6 would not have purchased.

8 198. The reasonable consumer relies on clothing companies to honestly represent the 9 price of the products and any associated discounts. The damages suffered by the Plaintiff and the 10 Florida Class were directly and proximately caused by the deceptive, misleading and unfair
11 practices of Defendants.

12 199. Additionally, pursuant to Sections 501.211(2) and 501.2105, Florida Statutes,
13 Plaintiff and the Class make claims for damages, attorney's fees and costs.

14 200. On September 6, 2017, Plaintiff sent notice to Defendants in writing, by certified
15 mail, of the violations alleged herein and demanded that Defendants remedy those violations with 16 respect to themselves and the classes.
17

18 201. To date, Defendants have not remedied their practices complained of herein.

19 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

20 WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays that this case be certified and maintained as a class action
21 and for judgment to be entered in favor of Plaintiff and the classes against Defendants as follows:

22 A. Enter an order certifying the proposed classes, designating Plaintiff as the 23 representative for the class and sub-classes he seeks to represent, and designating the 24 undersigned as class counsel;

25 B. Declare that Defendants are financially responsible for notifying all class
26 members of their deceptive advertising, sales, and marketing practices alleged herein;

27 C. Find that Defendants' conduct alleged herein be adjudged and decreed in 28

1 violation of the state laws cited above;

2 D. Grant economic and compensatory damages on behalf of Plaintiff and all
3 members of the classes, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law;

4 E. Grant statutory, punitive, or exemplary damages as permitted by law;

5 F. Award interest as permitted by law;

6 G. Grant reasonable attorneys' fees pursuant to California Civil Code § 1780 (d)
7 and as otherwise permitted by statute, and reimbursement all costs incurred in the prosecution
8 of this action; and

10 H. Grant such other relief as this Court deems just and proper.

11 DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

12 Plaintiff hereby demands a trial by jury as to all issues so triable.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTORNEYS COMPLETING CIVIL COVER SHEET FORM JS-CAND 44

Authority For Civil Cover Sheet. The JS-CAND 44 civil cover sheet and the information contained herein neither replaces nor supplements the filings and service of pleading or other papers as required by law, except as provided by local rules of court. This form, approved in its original form by the Judicial Conference of the United States in September 1974, is required for the Clerk of Court to initiate the civil docket sheet. Consequently, a civil cover sheet is submitted to the Clerk of Court for each civil complaint filed. The attorney filing a case should complete the form as follows:

- I. a) Plaintiffs-Defendants. Enter names (last, first, middle initial) of plaintiff and defendant. If the plaintiff or defendant is a government agency, use only the full name or standard abbreviations. If the plaintiff or defendant is an official within a government agency, identify first the agency and then the official, giving both name and title.
- b) County of Residence. For each civil case filed, except U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county where the first listed plaintiff resides at the time of filing. In U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county in which the first listed defendant resides at the time of filing. (NOTE: In land condemnation cases, the county of residence of the “defendant” is the location of the tract of land involved.)
- c) Attorneys. Enter the firm name, address, telephone number, and attorney of record. If there are several attorneys, list them on an attachment, noting in this section “(see attachment).”
- II. Jurisdiction. The basis of jurisdiction is set forth under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a), which requires that jurisdictions be shown in pleadings. Place an “X” in one of the boxes. If there is more than one basis of jurisdiction, precedence is given in the order shown below.
- (1) United States plaintiff. Jurisdiction based on 28 USC §§ 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here.
 - (2) United States defendant. When the plaintiff is suing the United States, its officers or agencies, place an “X” in this box.
 - (3) Federal question. This refers to suits under 28 USC § 1331, where jurisdiction arises under the Constitution of the United States, an amendment to the Constitution, an act of Congress or a treaty of the United States. In cases where the U.S. is a party, the U.S. plaintiff or defendant code takes precedence, and box 1 or 2 should be marked.
 - (4) Diversity of citizenship. This refers to suits under 28 USC § 1332, where parties are citizens of different states. When Box 4 is checked, the citizenship of the different parties must be checked. (See Section III below; NOTE: federal question actions take precedence over diversity cases.)
- III. Residence (citizenship) of Principal Parties. This section of the JS-CAND 44 is to be completed if diversity of citizenship was indicated above. Mark this section for each principal party.
- IV. Nature of Suit. Place an “X” in the appropriate box. If the nature of suit cannot be determined, be sure the cause of action, in Section VI below, is sufficient to enable the deputy clerk or the statistical clerk(s) in the Administrative Office to determine the nature of suit. If the cause fits more than one nature of suit, select the most definitive.
- V. Origin. Place an “X” in one of the six boxes.
- (1) Original Proceedings. Cases originating in the United States district courts.
 - (2) Removed from State Court. Proceedings initiated in state courts may be removed to the district courts under Title 28 USC § 1441. When the petition for removal is granted, check this box.
 - (3) Remanded from Appellate Court. Check this box for cases remanded to the district court for further action. Use the date of remand as the filing date.
 - (4) Reinstated or Reopened. Check this box for cases reinstated or reopened in the district court. Use the reopening date as the filing date.
 - (5) Transferred from Another District. For cases transferred under Title 28 USC § 1404(a). Do not use this for within district transfers or multidistrict litigation transfers.
 - (6) Multidistrict Litigation Transfer. Check this box when a multidistrict case is transferred into the district under authority of Title 28 USC § 1407. When this box is checked, do not check (5) above.
 - (8) Multidistrict Litigation Direct File. Check this box when a multidistrict litigation case is filed in the same district as the Master MDL docket. Please note that there is no Origin Code 7. Origin Code 7 was used for historical records and is no longer relevant due to changes in statute.
- VI. Cause of Action. Report the civil statute directly related to the cause of action and give a brief description of the cause. Do not cite jurisdictional statutes unless diversity. Example: U.S. Civil Statute: 47 USC § 553. Brief Description: Unauthorized reception of cable service.
- VII. Requested in Complaint. Class Action. Place an “X” in this box if you are filing a class action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23. Demand. In this space enter the actual dollar amount being demanded or indicate other demand, such as a preliminary injunction. Jury Demand. Check the appropriate box to indicate whether or not a jury is being demanded.
- VIII. Related Cases. This section of the JS-CAND 44 is used to identify related pending cases, if any. If there are related pending cases, insert the docket numbers and the corresponding judge names for such cases.
- IX. Divisional Assignment. If the Nature of Suit is under Property Rights or Prisoner Petitions or the matter is a Securities Class Action, leave this section blank. For all other cases, identify the divisional venue according to Civil Local Rule 3-2: “the county in which a substantial part of the events or omissions which give rise to the claim occurred or in which a substantial part of the property that is the subject of the action is situated.”
- Date and Attorney Signature. Date and sign the civil cover sheet.
