

Notice of Data Event

Precipio, Inc. (“Precipio”) is providing notice of an event that may involve some patient information.

What Happened? On or about November 25, 2026, we became aware that an unauthorized user accessed an employee’s cloud-based storage account. In response, we promptly began an investigation to ensure the security of our system and determine the full nature and scope of the activity, with the assistance of third-party cybersecurity specialists. Through the investigation, we determined there was unauthorized access to the cloud-based storage account on or around November 23, 2025 and that certain files within the account were copied without authorization. We are currently conducting an extensive review of the files that may be affected to determine what information was present and to whom the information is related. Once this review is complete, we will provide further notifications as appropriate.

What Information Was Involved? Based on our investigation to date, we determined that the impacted information varies by individual but may include data such as name, address, medical record number, date of birth, clinical or treatment information, medical procedure information, medical provider name, prescription information, and/or health insurance information.

What We Are Doing. Information privacy and security are among our highest priorities. Upon learning of this event, we moved quickly to investigate and respond to the incident, secure the impacted account, and undertake the processes needed to notify potentially affected individuals. Additionally, federal law enforcement was notified of the event. We recognize the evolving nature of cybersecurity and will continue to evaluate and enhance our technical safeguards in the future.

For More Information. If you have additional questions, please call our dedicated assistance line at (917) 664-7071, Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, excluding holidays. You may also write to us at 4 Science Park, New Haven, CT 06511.

What You Can Do. We encourage individuals who may be affected to remain vigilant against instances of identity theft and fraud by reviewing account statements and monitoring free credit reports for suspicious activity and to detect errors. Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);

2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver's license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:

Additional Information

Consumers may further educate themselves regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps they can take to protect personal information by contacting the consumer reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission, or their state Attorney General. The Federal Trade Commission may be reached at: 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261. The Federal Trade Commission also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them. Consumers can obtain further information on how to file such a complaint by way of the contact information listed above. Consumers have the right to file a police report if they ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, consumers will likely need to provide some proof that they have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement and the relevant state Attorney General. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.
