COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE AND OTHER RELIEF

16 Plaintiff, the State of Arizona ex rel. Kristin K. Mayes, Attorney General (the 17 “State”), for its Complaint against Defendants Reynolds Consumer Products, Inc. and 18 Reynolds Consumer Products, LLC (collectively, “Reynolds”), alleges as follows.

19 ///

1 INTRODUCTION

2 1. Recycling offers substantial benefits to Arizonans by reducing the amount of 3 waste that ends up in Arizona landfills. Waste in landfills degrades and pollutes natural 4 environments, including soil, water, and air.

5 2. Recycling saves natural resources and energy, and can add value to local 6 economies.

7 3. Plastic waste is an increasingly dire international problem. Plastics can 8 breakdown into micro- and nano-plastics, which have been found in air, clouds, water, soil,
9 sea life, and almost every human organ.¹

10 4. Plastic recycling is a near myth. The U.S. recycling rate for plastic is only five 11 to six percent, and the only known viable markets for plastic recycling are for plastics
12 marked on the bottom as #1 and #2 – mostly plastic bottles and milk jugs – and not soft
13 plastics, like plastic bags.²

1 5. Globally, the majority of consumers believe that the most important step they
2 can personally take to reduce greenhouse gas emissions is to recycle as much as possible.³

3 6. Annually, Arizona diverts approximately twenty percent of its waste through 4 recycling, and in 2022, its citizens recycled at least 841,000 tons of waste.⁴

5 7. Consumers have become increasingly aware of the problems associated with 6 pollution and plastic waste, and many consumers actively seek to purchase products that are 7 recyclable to help divert waste from landfills, waterways, oceans, communities, and 8 incinerators.

9 8. Many items marketed as recyclable cost more money than the more traditional,
10 non-recyclable products, and many consumers are willing to pay a premium to purchase
11 products that are recyclable.

12 9. Consumers often rely on industry representations to determine which materials
13 can and cannot be recycled.

2 Illinois. It is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Reynolds Consumer Products, Inc. and owns the 3 “Hefty” trademark.

4 24. Whenever reference is made in this Complaint to any act or practice of the 5 Defendants Reynolds Consumer Products Inc. or Reynolds Consumer Products LLC
6 (collectively, “Reynolds”), such allegation shall be deemed to mean that the principals,
7 officers, directors, employees, consultants, agents, and representatives of said Defendants
8 did, or authorized, such act or practice, on behalf of said Defendants while actively engaged 9 in the scope of their duties.

10 ALLEGATIONS

11 25. At all times relevant to this Complaint, Defendant Reynolds was engaged in 12 trade or commerce in the state of Arizona by advertising and selling consumer products,
13 including Hefty “Recycling” bags and later, “Blue” and “Clear” bags, to Arizona consumers
14 through online commerce, big box retailers, and grocery stores located in Arizona.

15 ORIGINAL RECYCLING BAG PACKAGING

16 26. Since at least 2019, Defendant Reynolds sold Hefty “Recycling” bags in 13-
17 and 30-gallon, transparent blue and clear varieties, prominently labeled “RECYCLING” in 18 white text. The box of all “Recycling” varieties and sizes included an image of either a 19 transparent blue or clear bag filled with items such as plastic bottles and paper bags, which 20 are clearly recognizable as recyclables to consumers. See Exhibit A.

27. The back of the packaging stated in prominent green graphics: “HEFTY RECYCLING BAGS ARE PERFECT FOR ALL YOUR RECYCLING NEEDS.”

28. The back label also stated: “DESIGNED TO HANDLE ALL TYPES OF RECYCLABLES” and “TRANSPARENT FOR QUICK SORTING AND CURBSIDE IDENTIFICATION.” A graphic of a blue recycling truck was included, with the “chasing arrows” recycling symbol prominently displayed on the side of the truck.

29. Defendant Reynolds’ website provided additional representations about the

1 suitability of the Hefty “Recycling” trash bags for recycling, stating that the bags “[r]educe 2 your environmental impact,” are “designed to handle your heaviest recycling jobs,” and
3 “[t]hese transparent bags make it easy to sort your recyclables and avoid the landfill.”

4 30. Defendant Reynolds sold the Hefty “Recycling,” “Clear,” and “Blue” bags on 5 their website with images demonstrating how to use the bags for recycling.

11 31. On June 13, 2022, the State of Connecticut filed a Complaint against Reynolds 12 seeking injunctive, equitable, and civil relief to “redress injury to consumers resulting from 13 [Reynolds’] unfair and deceptive acts and practices which violate [the Connecticut Unfair
14 Trade Practices Act].”⁵ All alleged acts in the Connecticut Complaint concern Defendant
15 Reynolds’ line of “Recycling” bags.

16 SECOND DESIGN: 2022 RECYCLING BAG PACKAGING

17 32. Following the Connecticut Complaint, Defendant Reynolds adopted new 18 packaging in late 2022. Defendant continued to sell Hefty “Recycling” bags in 13- and 30-

1 gallon, transparent blue and clear varieties, prominently labeled in white text
2 “RECYCLING,” albeit with redesigned packaging. See Exhibit B.

3 33. The box included an image of either a blue or clear bag filled with items such 4 as plastic bottles and paper bags, clearly recognizable to consumers as items that are 5 regularly recycled.

6 34. On information and belief, that the image of the bagged recyclable materials is 7 the same image Defendant Reynolds used on its earlier packaging.

17 35. The front and sides of the redesigned packing included language in a 18 significantly smaller and more difficult to read font stating that the bags were “developed for 19 use in municipal recycling programs where applicable” and “contact your local municipality 20 or recycling center to confirm.”

36. The back of the updated packaging included checked bullet-points under “HEFTY. RECYCLING BAGS” that identified the benefits of using the bags to dispose of recyclable waste, including “Developed for Use in Municipal Recycling Programs Where Applicable; “Designed to Handle All Types of Recyclables; and “Transparent for Quick Sorting and Curbside Identification.”

37. Following its claims that the bags were developed for use in recycling programs and designed to handle all types of recyclables, at the bottom of the bullet-pointed list, Defendant Reynolds disclosed that “These bags are not recyclable.”

1 38. The size, location, and context of this disclosure was inadequate to notify 2 consumers that the so-called “recycling” bags were not recyclable.

3 39. The back of the updated packaging also contained a green rectangle with 4 “Hefty” in a green arrowed circle that stated “Hefty is committed to advancing sustainable,
5 end-of-life solutions for plastic waste” and directed users to a website to learn more.

6 40. The green arrow is similar to the green “chasing arrows” symbol often used to 7 signify recyclable or sustainable products.

8 41. The symbol, also known as the Möbius loop, is often used as a symbol for 9 recycling.

10 42. According to the Federal Trade Commission Green Guides, the symbol by 11 itself “likely conveys that the packaging is both recyclable and made entirely from recycled 12 material.”⁶

13 43. Using a green arrow to suggest environmental benefits for products that are not 14 actually recyclable is a form of deceptive conduct called “greenwashing,” which involves 15 intentionally applying misleading labels to give the deceptive impression that products are 16 more environmentally conscious or recyclable.⁷

17 44. On June 6, 2023, the State of Minnesota filed a Complaint against Reynolds
18 and Walmart for violations of the Minnesota Consumer Fraud Act “by using fraud, false

1 pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statements, or deceptive practices in
2 connection with the sale of their ‘Recycling’” bags.⁸

3 45. On July 11, 2024, Reynolds and Minnesota entered into a Consent Judgment.
4 In the Consent Judgment, Defendant Reynolds was permanently enjoined from marking or 5 selling the products in Minnesota, entered into a thirty-month moratorium on the 6 semitransparent blue bags, was required to establish anti-greenwashing training to its 7 marketing teams and following FTC Green Guide practice manuals, and agreed to pay
8 $132,670 in monetary relief to Minnesota.⁹

9 THIRD DESIGN: 2024 BLUE/CLEAR BAG PACKAGING

10 46. Defendant Reynolds once again redesigned the bags in 2024 to be called 11 “Clear” bags or “Blue” bags with “CLEAR” or “BLUE” replacing the lettering which stated
12 “RECYCLING” on previous versions. See Exhibit C.

13 47. The front of the third version of the packaging includes the same illustrations 14 of the bags filled with recyclable materials used in previous packaging, but without any 15 disclaimer on the front or sides such as developed for use in municipal recycling programs 16 where applicable” and “contact your local municipality or recycling center to confirm.”

62-cv-23-31074 (Minn. Dist. Ct., 2d Jud. Dist. July 11, 2024).

48. The back of the packaging now includes language in three checked bullet-points “Developed for use in participating municipal programs only;” “Transparent for quick and easy sorting;” and “These bags are not recyclable.”

49. The back also contains a green rectangle with “Hefty” in a green arrowed circle that states “Hefty is committed to advancing sustainable, end-of-life solutions for plastic waste” and directed users to a website to learn more.

1 50. Defendant Reynolds has the “Clear” and “Blue” bags listed under “Sustainable
2 Solutions” on their website.

10 51. Defendant Reynolds markets their “Clear” and “Blue” bags as “Clear Plastic 11 Bags” under a “recycling” subpage on its website, which advertises the products as bags that 12 “make it easier to sort and organize your recycling with maximum efficiency.”

13 Hefty® Clear Plastic Bags

14 Clear Plastic Bags

15 These strong and reliable clear trash bags make it easier to sort and organize your recycling with maximum efficiency.

16 52. Defendant Reynolds’ website depicts the “Clear” and “Blue” bags as being 17 used to hold recyclable materials and as for use in curbside recycling collection.

18 53. The webpage for the “Clear” and “Blue” bags shows a consumer with a bag 19 full of empty plastic bottles, tying up the bag of the recyclable materials, and then placing 20 the bag on the curb next to a collection bin—once again, the images used on the Hefty

1 website appear identical to those used for the original “Recycling” bag packaging.

9 54. Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that Arizona consumers
10 would make no new inferences about the bags when the only change from the front design of 11 the package was the removal of the word “RECYCLING.”

12 55. Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that Arizona consumers
13 would believe that the bags could be used for recycling pickup when the packaging displays
14 an illustration of the product being used to bag recyclables—the same image used in the two 15 previous packaging versions.

16 56. While Defendant Reynolds may have twice changed the label, it did not recall 17 all former versions of the product.

18 57. All three versions of labeling, including the original “Recycling” bag still 19 return in internet search results, and are still available for purchase through online retailers.

20 58. The image below shows an example of a Google search conducted August 6,

2025, with all three packaging versions appearing.

DEFENDANT REYNOLDS BAGS ARE NOT RECYCLABLE IN ARIZONA

59. Despite Defendant Reynold’s representations, Hefty “Recycling” bags, “Clear” bags, and “Blue” bags are not recyclable in Arizona’s municipal recycling programs or material recovery facilities (“MRFs”).

60. Hefty “Recycling,” “Clear,” or “Blue” bags are “plastic bags” and not recyclable in municipal programs.

61. Currently, upon information and belief, no MRF in Arizona recycles plastic bags or accepts bagged recyclable items like those depicted in Defendant Reynolds’ packaging and website, and many MRFs maintain that plastic bags result in damage to their equipment.

1 62. Soft plastics, like Defendant Reynolds’ bags, interfere with the recycling
2 process at Arizona MRFs.

3 63. Any bagged recyclables or soft plastic that makes it to the MRF process must 4 be removed manually.

5 64. Any plastic that makes it through this fallible system can become entangled in 6 the sorting equipment, forcing the MRF to shut down.

7 65. Indeed, one local MRF in Phoenix must shut down several times a day to 8 disentangle plastic bags, costing the city hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and 9 endangering the workers who must do the disentanglements.¹⁰

10 66. Hefty “Clear” and “Blue” bags are advertised as “Developed for use in 11 participating municipal programs only,” but no Arizona MRF allows for the sort of 12 recyclables Defendant Reynolds includes in its image of bagged recycling (i.e., milk bottles, 13 cans, paper bags), and only a small handful of MRFs in Arizona allow shredded paper to be 14 bagged in clear bags.

15 67. Defendant Reynolds does not advertise, market, or sell the products described 16 in this Complaint specifically or exclusively for use in recycling shredded paper.

17 68. When Hefty “Recycling,” “Clear,” or “Blue” bags end up in Arizona recycling 18 facilities, they can damage the equipment, lead to unsafe conditions for workers, and are

1 never recycled – often causing the otherwise-recyclable materials inside to be diverted to the 2 landfill instead of recycled.

3 69. Defendant Reynolds profits tens of thousands of dollars every year off of 4 Arizona consumers buying bags that Defendant Reynolds deceptively advertised to 5 consumers as recyclable or for use in recycling.

6 70. Defendant Reynolds knew that few programs in the United States allow bags 7 to be included in recycling programs and that the number of communities that allow bags is 8 declining.

9 71. Defendant Reynolds uses a Municipal Trash, Recycling, and Composting
10 (“mTRAC”) program to help identify recycling programs that accept recycling in plastic 11 bags.

12 72. Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that bagged recyclables are 13 not allowed in Arizona MRFs.

14 73. Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that consumers are often 15 confused about whether or not they are allowed to bag their recycling.

16 74. Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that labeling their products 17 as “for use in recycling” and packaging them with messages that promote their use in 18 recycling was deceptive, and knew or should have known that Arizona consumers would 19 believe that the products were recyclable and could be used to bag recyclable items for 20 curbside pickup.

1 engaging in a deceptive practice of advertising to Arizona consumers on its product
2 packaging that its products were recyclable.

3 80. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds violated the ACFA by
4 intentionally engaging in a deceptive practice of advertising to Arizona consumers on its
5 product packaging and website that its products were ideal for collecting recyclable
6 materials.

7 81. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds violated the ACFA by
8 intentionally engaging in a deceptive practice of advertising to Arizona consumers on its
9 product packaging and website that any recyclable waste contents placed in its “Recycling”
10 bags would be recycled.

11 82. From 2019 to 2024, Defendant Reynolds violated the ACFA by intentionally
12 engaging in a the deceptive practice of advertising its product of clear and transparent blue 13 plastic bags as “recycling bags” or bags intended to be used with recycling when it knew 14 the bags were not recyclable and knew or should have known that the format, manner, and 15 location of these representations created a deceptive net impression that the bags were 16 recyclable or, at a minimum, would not interfere with the recycling of their contents.

17 83. At all relevant times, Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that its 18 conduct was deceptive, and Defendant Reynolds’s conduct was willful pursuant to A.R.S. § 19 44-1531.

1 COUNT II

2 VIOLATIONS OF THE ARIZONA CONSUMER FRAUD ACT

3 A.R.S. § 44-1521 through § 44-1534

4 (Unfair Practices – Defendant Reynolds)

5 84. The State realleges and incorporates by reference all prior allegations of this
6 Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

7 85. The ACFA prohibits the use of “unfair” acts and practices in connection with 8 the sale or advertisement of merchandise.

9 86. Unfair acts and practices are those that are harmful to consumers, not 10 reasonably avoidable by consumers, and not outweighed by countervailing benefit to 11 consumers or to competition.

12 87. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds intentionally engaged in unfair
13 acts and practices by marketing its products in such a manner that falsely implied the 14 products were recyclable.

15 88. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds intentionally engaged in unfair
16 acts and practices by marketing its products in such a manner that falsely implied the 17 products were appropriately used in Arizona to dispose of recyclable materials in a manner
18 that would ensure the products and the materials were recycled.

19

1 Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

2 96. Concealment, suppression, or omission of material facts with intent that others
3 rely on such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale or 4 advertisement of merchandise is a violation of the ACFA, A.R.S. §§ 44-1521 to 44-1534.

5 97. Pursuant to Arizona law, a practice of omitting information in connection with 6 the sale and advertisement of merchandise may be a deceptive practice in violation of the 7 ACFA. State ex rel. Horne v. AutoZone, Inc., 229 Ariz. 358, 361 (2012).

8 98. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds omitted the material fact that the 9 products at issue were not recyclable in Arizona with the intent that Arizona consumers rely 10 on this omission when purchasing its merchandise.

11 99. These omissions were consistent, pervasive, and had the tendency and capacity
12 to mislead consumers, and their use was, therefore, a deceptive practice in violation of 13 A.R.S. § 44-1522.

14 100. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds omitted the material fact that 15 otherwise recyclable items placed into “Recycling” bags will not be recycled with the intent
16 that Arizona consumers rely on this omission when purchasing its merchandise.

17 101. These omissions were consistent, pervasive, and had the tendency and capacity
18 to mislead consumers, and their use was also a deceptive practice in violation of 19 A.R.S. § 44-1522.

20 102. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds omitted the material fact that the 21

1 bags themselves are not recyclable anywhere if contaminated by waste residue with the 2 intent that Arizona consumers rely on this omission when purchasing its merchandise.

3 103. These omissions were consistent, pervasive, and had the tendency and capacity
4 to mislead consumers, and their use was also a deceptive practice in violation of
5 A.R.S. § 44-1522.

6 104. From 2019 to Present, Defendant Reynolds omitted the material fact that the 7 bags interfere with the recycling processes at Arizona MRFs with the intent that Arizona
8 consumers rely on this omission when purchasing its merchandise.

9 105. These omissions were consistent, pervasive, and had the tendency and capacity
10 to mislead consumers, and their use was also a deceptive practice in violation of 11 A.R.S. § 44-1522.

12 106. Defendant Reynolds knew or should have known that its omissions and 13 deceptive practices described herein were of the nature prohibited by A.R.S. § 44-1522, and 14 were therefore willful, subjecting Defendant Reynolds to civil penalties as provided in 15 A.R.S. § 44-1531.

16 107. Defendant Reynolds committed a separate and independent violation of the 17 ACFA through each and every unfair, deceptive, false, or misleading representation, or 18 omission of material information for each package sold in Arizona.

10 “recycling,” “recyclable,” the Möbius loop, or similar language or indicia of 11 recycling.

12 109. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1528(A)(2), order Defendant Reynolds pay restitution
13 in the amount of all monies paid by Arizona consumers for the bags at issue.

14 110. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1528(A)(3), order Defendant Reynolds to disgorge all 15 profits, gains, gross receipts, or other benefits obtained as a result of its unlawful acts alleged 16 herein;

17 111. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1531, order Defendant Reynolds to pay to the State of 18 Arizona a civil penalty of up to $10,000 for each willful violation of A.R.S. § 44-1522;

19 112. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1534, order Defendant Reynolds to reimburse the 20 State for its costs and attorneys’ fees incurred in the investigation and prosecution of 21

1 Defendant Reynolds' activities alleged in this Complaint;

2 113. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1201, require Defendant Reynolds to pay pre-
3 judgment and post-judgment interest to the State and all affected consumers;
