UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ROSE RIVALI, on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

vs.

SHUTTERFLY, LLC, a Delaware
Limited Liability Company, and DOES 1- 50, inclusive,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:22-cv-2175

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

- 1. Violation of California’s Unfair Competition Laws (“UCL”); CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17200, et seq.
- 2. Violation of California’s False Advertising Laws (“FAL”); CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17500, et seq.
- 3. Violations of California Consumer Legal Remedies Act (“CLRA”); CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1750, et seq.

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

1 Plaintiff Rose Rivali brings this action on behalf of herself and all others similarly 2 situated against Defendant Shutterfly, LLC (“Defendant” or “Shutterfly”), and state:

3 I. NATURE OF THE ACTION

4 1. Discounts of products benefit both sellers and their customers—when they are 5 legitimate. To the detriment of consumers, as stated by the Ninth Circuit, sellers are “well 6 aware of consumers’ susceptibility to a bargain, [and] therefore have an incentive to lie to 7 their customers.” Hinojos v. Kohl’s Corp., 718 F.3d 1098, 1101 (9th Cir. 2013). Products 8 perceived by consumers as discounted are thus not always actual bargains, and consumers’ 9 perceptions can stem directly from sellers’ deceptions. This class action seeks monetary 10 damages, restitution, declaratory and injunctive relief from Defendant arising from its own 11 deceptive business practice of advertising fictitious “original” prices and corresponding 12 phantom discounts on its e-commerce website, shutterfly.com, where it sells a wide variety 13 of customizable items from coffee mugs and puzzles to greeting cards, invitations, and 14 photo books to personalized home decor.

15 2. False reference pricing occurs when a seller fabricates a false “original” price 16 for a product and then offers that product at a substantially lower price under the guise of a 17 sale. The resulting artificial price disparity misleads consumers into believing the product 18 they are buying has a higher market value, and it induces them into purchasing the product.
19 This practice artificially inflates the true market price for these products by raising 20 consumers’ internal reference price and in turn the value consumers ascribe to these 21 products (i.e., demand). Consequently, false reference pricing schemes enable retailers, like 22 Defendant, to sell products above their true market price and value—and consumers are left 23 to pay the price.

24 3. The following example of a hypothetical DVD seller, which is parallel to 25 Defendant’s deceptive business practice, illustrates the illegal false reference pricing 26 scheme and its attendant harm to consumers. A seller knows it can sell a particular DVD at 27 $5.00, which represents both the market price and the price at which the seller could 28 regularly offer the DVD and make a profit. Instead, however, the seller creates an inflated

1 “original” price for the DVD of $100.00 and advertises the DVD as “on sale” at 90% off 2 rendering the “sale” price of the DVD $10.00. When a consumer purchases the DVD, he 3 presumes he got a “good deal” on a DVD previously sold—i.e., valued by others in the 4 market—at an “original” price of $100.00. The consumer’s presumption and purchase stem 5 directly from the seller’s purposeful deception. For example, if the seller tried to sell that 6 same DVD for $10.00 without referencing a false original price of $100.00, and the 7 attendant 90% off discount, that seller would not be able to sell any DVDs at $10.00 because 8 the true, original market price of the DVD is $5.00. In contrast, by presenting consumers 9 with a false “original” price of $100.00, consumers will purchase the DVD at $10.00; the 10 seller thus has fabricated an increase in demand for the DVD through the perceived value 11 of both the DVD itself and the substantial discount of $90.00. Consumers’ increased 12 willingness and demand to pay $10.00 for the DVD will in turn impact the overall market 13 price of the DVD. Therefore, the seller can create a false market price for the DVD at $10.00 14 by advertising a false “original” price and a corresponding phantom discount of 90% off.
15 Plaintiff’s case seeks to remedy this deception, its attendant harm to consumers, and that 16 disparity—the impact on the increase in market price through Defendant’s application of an 17 illegal discounting scheme.

18 4. It is well-established that false reference pricing violates state and federal law.
19 Even so, sellers, including Shutterfly, continue to use the tactic because they know they will 20 be able to increase sales and profits by tricking consumers into making purchasing decisions 21 based on the advertised reference prices. The information available to consumers varies for 22 different types of products; nonetheless, consumers frequently lack full information about 23 products and as a result often use information from sellers to make purchase decisions.

24 5. Through its false and misleading marketing, advertising, and pricing scheme 25 alleged herein, Shutterfly violated, and continues to violate, California and Federal law, 26 which prohibit the advertisement of goods for sale discounted from false former prices.
27 California and Federal law also prohibit the dissemination of misleading statements about 28 the existence and amount of price reductions. Specifically, Defendant violated and

1 continues to violate: California’s Unfair Competition Law, CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE
2 §§ 17200, et seq. (the “UCL”); California’s False Advertising Law, CAL. BUS. & PROF.
3 CODE §§ 17500, et seq. (the “FAL”); the California Consumer Legal Remedies Act, CAL.
4 CIV. CODE §§ 1750, et seq. (the “CLRA”); and the Federal Trade Commission Act
5 (“FTCA”), which prohibits “unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce” 6 (15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1)) and false advertisements (15 U.S.C. § 52(a)).

7 6. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of herself and other similarly situated 8 consumers who have purchased one or more products through shutterfly.com that was 9 deceptively represented as discounted from a false reference price. Plaintiff seeks to halt the 10 dissemination of this false, misleading, and deceptive pricing scheme, to correct the false 11 and misleading perception it has created in the minds of consumers, and to obtain redress 12 for those who have purchased products tainted by this deceptive pricing scheme. Plaintiff 13 also seeks to enjoin Defendant from using misrepresentations regarding former price 14 comparisons in its labeling, marketing, and advertising permanently. Furthermore, Plaintiff 15 seeks to obtain damages, restitution, and other appropriate relief in the amount by which 16 Defendant was unjustly enriched as a result of its sales offered at a false discount.

17 7. Finally, Plaintiff seeks reasonable attorneys’ fees pursuant to CAL. CIV. PROC.
18 CODE § 1021.5, as this lawsuit seeks the enforcement of an important right affecting the 19 public interest and satisfies the statutory requirements for an award of attorneys’ fees.

20 II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

21 8. This Court has original jurisdiction of this action pursuant to the Class Action 22 Fairness Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2). The matter in controversy, exclusive of interest and 23 costs, exceeds the sum or value of $5,000,000 and at least some members of the proposed 24 Class (defined below) have a different citizenship from Defendant.

25 9. The Central District of California has personal jurisdiction over Defendant and 26 is the proper venue for this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(1) in the Plaintiff Rose 27 Rivali resides and was injured in this district wherein a substantial part of the events or 28 omissions giving rise to her claims occurred. Further, Defendant is a corporation or other

1 business entity that maintains its principal place of business in this jurisdiction and because 2 Defendant conducts substantial business in this district and has sufficient minimum contacts 3 in California, and/or otherwise intentionally avail itself to the California market through the 4 operation of its e-commerce website and headquarters within the State of California.

5 III. GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

6 A. Retailers Benefit from False Reference Pricing Schemes.

7 10. Shutterfly engages in a false and misleading reference price scheme in the 8 marketing and selling of its products on the Shutterfly e-commerce website.

9 11. Sellers substantially benefit from employing false reference pricing schemes 10 and experience increased sales because consumers use advertised reference prices to make 11 purchase decisions. The information available to consumers can vary significantly amongst 12 different types of products.<sup>1</sup> Nonetheless, consumers frequently lack fundamental 13 information about a product and as a result often rely on information from sellers to make 14 purchase decisions, especially when a product's value or quality is otherwise difficult to 15 discern.<sup>2</sup>

16 12. Consumers incorporate Defendant's deceptive advertised reference prices into 17 decision processes for a few reasons. First, a product's "price is also used as an indicator of 18 product quality."<sup>3</sup> In other words, consumers view Defendant's deceptive advertised 19

20 <sup>1</sup> Even within a product, consumers may have imperfect information on the individual 21 attributes. Economists describe "search goods" as those whose attributes "can be 22 ascertained in the search process prior to purchase" (e.g., style of a shirt), "experience 23 goods" as those whose attributes "can be discovered only after purchase as the product is 24 used" (e.g., longevity of a shirt), and "credence goods" as those whose attributes "cannot 25 be evaluated in normal use" (e.g., whether the shirt's cotton was produced using organic 26 farming methods). Darby, Michael R., and Edi Karni. "Free Competition and the Optimal 27 Amount of Fraud." The Journal of Law and Economics 16 no. 1 (1973): 67-88, pp. 68-69.

28 <sup>2</sup> "Not only do consumers lack full information about the prices of goods, but their information is probably even poorer about the quality variation of products simply because the latter information is more difficult to obtain". Nelson, Phillip. "Information and Consumer Behavior." Journal of Political Economy 78, no. 2 (1970): 311-329, pp. 311-312. See also David Adam Friedman, Reconsidering Fictitious Pricing, 100 Minn. L. Rev.

deceptive?" Journal of Public Policy & Marketing (1992): 52-62, p. 54. Also see Thaler, Richard. "Mental Accounting and Consumer Choice." Marketing Science 4, no. 3 (1985):

1 reference prices as a proxy for product quality. Second, reference prices “appeal[] to 2 consumers’ desire for bargains or deals.”<sup>4</sup> Academic researchers note how consumers 3 “sometimes expend more time and energy to get a discount than seems reasonable given the 4 financial gain involved,” and “often derive more satisfaction from finding a sale price than 5 might be expected on the basis of the amount of money they actually save.”<sup>5</sup> Under this 6 concept, coined “transaction utility” by Noble Prize-winning economist Richard Thaler, 7 consumers place some value on the psychological experience of obtaining a product at a 8 perceived bargain.<sup>6</sup>

9 13. Research in marketing and economics has long recognized that consumer 10 demand can be influenced by “internal” and “external” reference prices.<sup>7</sup> Internal reference 11 prices are “prices stored in memory” (e.g., a consumer’s price expectations adapted from 12 past experience) while external reference prices are “provided by observed stimuli in the 13 purchase environment” (e.g., a “suggested retail price,” or other comparative sale price).<sup>8</sup> 14 Researchers report that consumer’s internal reference prices adjust toward external 15 reference prices when valuing a product.<sup>9</sup> For products purchased infrequently, external

16 _____
 17 often the good is purchased. The [reference price] is most likely to serve as a proxy for 18 quality when the consumer has trouble determining quality in other ways (such as by inspection”).

 22 Bargain.” Journal of Consumer Psychology 13, no 3 (2003): 328-338, p. 328.

23 <sup>6</sup> “To incorporate ... the psychology of buying into the model, two kinds of utility are 24 postulated: acquisition utility and transaction utility. The former depends on the value of 25 the good received compared to the outlay, the latter depends solely on the perceived merits 26 of the ‘deal’”. Thaler, Richard. “Mental Accounting and Consumer Choice.” Marketing Science 4, no. 3 (1985): 199-214, p. 205.

27 <sup>7</sup> Empirical results “suggest that internal reference prices are a significant factor in purchase 28 decisions. The results also add empirical evidence that external reference prices significantly enter the brand-choice decision.” Mayhew, Glenn E. and Russell S. Winer.

 Reference Prices using Scanner Data.” Journal of Consumer Research 19, no. 1 (1992): 62-70, p. 62.

 advertisement. That is, buyers either adjust their internal reference price or accept the

1 reference prices can be particularly influential because consumers have little or no prior 2 internal reference.<sup>10</sup> In other words, “[t]he deceptive potential of such advertised reference 3 prices are likely to be considerably higher for buyers with less experience or knowledge of 4 the product and product category.”<sup>11</sup> Academic literature further reports that “there is ample 5 evidence that consumers use reference prices in making brand choices”<sup>12</sup> and publications 6 have summarized the empirical data as follows:

7       Inflated reference prices can have multiple effects on consumers. They can 8       increase consumers’ value perceptions (transaction value and acquisition 9       value), reduce their search intentions for lower prices, increase their purchase 10       intentions, and reduce their purchase intentions for competing products ...

11       Inflated and/or false advertised reference prices enhance consumers’ internal 12       reference price estimates and, ultimately, increase their perceptions of value 13       and likelihood to purchase[.]<sup>13</sup>

14       14. Sellers, including Defendant, understand consumers are vulnerable to 15       perceived bargains. Thus, Defendant has a substantial financial interest in exploiting 16       consumers’ well-known behavioral tendencies by inducing consumers into believing they 17       are receiving a bargain—even when they are not. The phenomena of people 18       disproportionately relying on an initial piece of information when making a decision, known

21       advertised reference price to make judgments about the product’s value and the value of the 22       deal.” Grewal, Dhruv, Kent B. Monroe, and Ramayya Krishnan. “The Effects of Price-23       Comparison Advertising on Buyers’ Perceptions of Acquisition Value, Transaction Value, 24       and Behavioral Intentions.” The Journal of Marketing 62 (1998): 46-59, p. 48.

25       <sup>10</sup> As Thalen notes, “the [suggested retail price] will be more successful as a reference price 26       the less often the good is purchased.” Thaler, Richard. “Mental Accounting and Consumer 27       Choice.” Marketing Science 4, no. 3 (1985): 199-214, p. 212.

28       <sup>11</sup> Grewal, Dhruv, and Larry D. Compeau. “Pricing and public policy: A research agenda and an overview of the special issue.” Journal of Public Policy & Marketing 18, no. 1 (1999): 3-10, p. 7.

Reference Price Research.” Marketing Science 14, no. 3 (1995): G161-G169, p. G161.

and an overview of the special issue.” Journal of Public Policy & Marketing 18, no. 1

1 as “anchoring,”<sup>14</sup> is especially relevant in this context.<sup>15</sup> Reference prices are often the first, 2 if not the only, insight into a product besides the sale price itself. Thus, consumers use the 3 reference price as a baseline upon which to perceive a product’s value.

4 B. California State and Federal Pricing Regulations Prohibit False “Original 5 price” references and Out-Dated “Original price” references.

6 15. Under California law, a seller may only discount an item from its own original 7 price for up to 90 days; or in the alternative, a seller may offer a discount from the original 8 price of an item being offered by a competitor, within the relevant market, for up to 90 days.
 9 In either scenario, a seller can only offer a “sale” from an original price for 90 days. At that 10 point, on day 91, the seller has two options: the product must either return to its full original 11 price, or the seller may continue to sell the product at the discounted price, as long as it 12 discloses to the consumer the date on which the product was last offered for sale at its 13 alleged former price. See BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501. Under California law, a seller 14 cannot use an old, outdated, “original price” as the basis for a sale or discount, unless it 15 discloses to the consumer the date on which the prior original price was offered in the 16 market. Id.

17 16. Additionally, under the FTCA, when a seller offers a discount from its own, 18 former original price, the original price is required to have been a price at which the seller 19 held that item out for sale on a regular basis, for a commercially reasonable period of time.
 20 See 16 C.F.R. § 233.1(a) and (b).

21 C. Defendant’s Fraudulent Price Discounting Scheme Violates California 22 State Law and Federal Regulations.

23 17. Defendant engages in a false and misleading reference price scheme in the 24 marketing and selling of the products offered on its e-commerce website. Defendant 25 advertises products for sale by listing them with a fictitious original price and a corresponding 26

27 <sup>14</sup> See Program on Negotiation, Anchoring Effect, HARV. L. SCH., 28 <http://www.pon.harvard.edu/tag/anchoring-effect> (“[T]he anchoring effect, [is] the tendency for the first offer to “anchor” the bargaining that follows in its direction, even if the offer recipient thinks the offer is out of line.”).

1 sale price. The original price communicates “the product’s worth and the prestige that 2 ownership of the product conveys.” Hinojos, 718 F.3d at 1106 (citing Dhruv Grewal & Larry 3 D. Compeau, Comparative Price Advertising: Informative or Deceptive?, 11 J. Pub. Pol’y &
4 Mktg. 52, 55 (Spring 1992) (“By creating an impression of savings, the presence of a higher 5 reference price enhances subjects’ perceived value and willingness to buy the product.”).
6 “Misinformation about a product’s ‘normal’ price is . . . significant to many consumers in the 7 same way as a false product label would be.” Hinojos, 718 F.3d at 1106.

8 18. Defendant consistently advertises its products on its e-commerce website 9 alongside a reference price and the corresponding sale price. The reference price is crossed 10 out and substantial discount is offered on the sale price. See Exhibit A. Defendant 11 advertises a seemingly original reference price, in truth a false reference price, with a 12 “strikethrough.” The false reference price operates as a baseline consumers rely on to assess 13 a product’s value. Moreover, it is shown alongside the original price to communicate to 14 consumers that Defendant is selling a product at a substantial discount, even though the 15 product is not in fact discounted. The sale price displayed directly next to the false reference 16 price conveys the “deep discount” at which Defendant presently offers a product, ostensibly 17 for a limited time.

18 19. However, the products sold on Defendant’s e-commerce website are never sold 19 at the price displayed with a strikethrough—the price consumers are led to presume is the 20 full original price. The “deep discount” of products communicated to consumers viewing 21 Defendant’s e-commerce website constitutes a misrepresentation by Defendant. The 22 “original” price merely serves as a false reference price Defendant uses as part of a larger 23 scheme to deceptively manufacture false discounts to incentivize consumers to make 24 purchases.

25 20. To reiterate, the products sold on shutterfly.com show the original price with 26 a strikethrough alongside the corresponding sale price immediately next to a picture of the 27 product. For example, as seen in Exhibit A, a “Photo Gallery Wall Art,” Defendant lists the 28 false reference price as “$149.98” with a strikethrough, which suggests to customers that

1 Defendant previously offered its products at the strikethrough price of $149.98. Attached 2 hereto as Exhibit B are numerous snapshots from shutterfly.com acquired through the 3 Wayback Machine—a well-regarded archive of internet webpages as they existed at a 4 singular point in time—depicting the false reference pricing scheme.

5 21. Defendant’s purposeful practice operates by deceiving consumers into 6 (1) making purchases they otherwise would not have made and (2) paying substantially 7 more for products they believed are heavily discounted and thus worth more than their 8 actual value. The only plausible explanation for Defendant’s above illustrated practice is to 9 drive sales; artificially inflate the perceived value of its products; and as a result artificially 10 inflate the price at which consumers are willing to buy its products. Defendant has, and 11 without intervention will continue to, increase sales by creating the illusion of short-lived 12 bargains through purporting to offer products on sale from false original prices.

13 22. Defendant’s perpetual listings of its products as discounted on its e-commerce 14 website constitute false, fraudulent, and deceptive advertising because the advertised 15 reference prices it displays list substantially higher prices than those ever offered by 16 Defendant. The reference prices only serve to deceive consumers; they function as 17 benchmark prices from which the false discount and corresponding “sale” price are derived.
18 Defendant’s scheme tricks consumers into justifiably believing they are getting a significant 19 deal when in reality consumers are paying the usual retail price for products.

20 23. In sum, the false reference prices, the strikethrough of said prices, and the sale 21 prices all displayed next to each other on product listing pages on Defendant’s e-commerce 22 website are all part of Defendant’s purposeful, deceptive scheme. The products sold through 23 Defendant’s e-commerce website are never offered for sale, nor sold, at the advertised false 24 reference price. Defendant advertises false reference prices with a purpose to induce 25 consumers into believing its products were once sold at said price. The strikethrough of the 26 false reference prices next to products creates a false sense of urgency in consumers.
27 Defendant intends for consumers to be misled that Defendant will sell its products at the 28 advertised, higher reference price “again” if they do not purchase its products soon; and

1 consumers are misled. Consumers believe they are receiving a substantial bargain when 2 they purchase products on Defendant's e-commerce website at the "discounted" sale price.
3 However, Defendant did not actually sell products on its e-commerce website at the 4 advertised reference prices within 90 days of discounting them. In fact, Defendant never 5 offered or sold products at their advertised false reference price, and consumers thus never 6 received a true bargain. All while fully aware of its deception, Defendant has achieved, and 7 might continue to achieve, its ultimate, continuing purpose of driving sales with sham 8 markdowns.

9         24. Nowhere on Defendant's e-commerce website does Defendant disclose that 10 the reference or "original" prices displayed are not: former prices; or recent, within 90 days, 11 regularly offered former prices; or prices at which identical products are sold elsewhere in 12 the market. The omission of these disclosures, coupled with Defendant's use of fictitious 13 advertised reference prices, renders Defendant's pricing scheme inherently misleading.

14         25. Moreover, the advertised discounts were fictitious because the reference prices 15 did not represent a bona fide price at which Defendant previously sold or offered to sell the 16 products, on a regular basis, for a commercially reasonable period of time, as required by 17 the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"). In addition, the represented advertised reference 18 prices were not the prevailing market retail price within the three months (90 days) 19 immediately preceding the publication of the advertised former reference price, as required 20 by California law.

21         26. Thus, Defendant's scheme intends to, and does, provide misinformation to the 22 customer. The misinformation communicates to consumers, including Plaintiff, that the 23 products sold on Defendant's e-commerce website have greater value than the advertised 24 discounted price.

25         27. The reference prices listed and advertised on products sold through 26 Defendant's e-commerce website are false or severely outdated reference prices, utilized 27 only to perpetuate Defendant's false discount scheme.

28

1 28. Defendant fraudulently concealed from and intentionally failed to disclose the 2 truth about its advertised discount prices and former reference prices to Plaintiff and other 3 members of the Class.

4 29. At all relevant times, Defendant has been under a duty to Plaintiff and the Class
5 to disclose the truth about its false discounts.

6 D. Investigation

7 30. Products sold on Shutterfly's e-commerce website are priced uniformly. In 8 other words, the products sold by Defendant bears a substantially discounted sale price that 9 appears next to the "crossed out" or "strikethrough" original price. Plaintiff's counsel's 10 investigation confirmed that the all of the merchandise purchased by Plaintiff was priced 11 with a false reference price and a corresponding discounted price for at least the 90-day 12 period immediately preceding Plaintiff's purchase in violation of California law. The 13 merchandise purchased by Plaintiff was not, and is not, offered for sale in any other market.

14 31. Plaintiff's counsel deployed a sophisticated software program to track each 15 item offered for sale on the Shutterfly.com website. Plaintiff's counsel tracked the pricing 16 of certain merchandise offered for sale through shutterfly.com at various points from May 17 of 2021 through the present. A sample of the items tracked are attached as Exhibit C. For 18 the duration of the tracking period, each product remained significantly discounted from its 19 reference price. The investigation indicated the false reference pricing scheme was uniform 20 across Defendant's e-commerce website.

21 32. Plaintiff's counsel also researched Defendant's e-commerce website through 22 the Wayback Machine. The website snapshots recorded by the Wayback Machine are 23 consistent with Plaintiff's counsel's investigation.

24 33. The false reference price and corresponding discount price scheme were both 25 uniform and identical on almost all products sold through Defendant's e-commerce website.
26 The only change was the requisite "discount" on certain products.

27 34. Thus, the fraudulent price scheme applies to all products offered for sale 28 through Defendant's e-commerce website, including the product purchased by Plaintiff.

IV. PARTIES

Plaintiff

35. Rose Rivali resides in Lancaster, California. Plaintiff, in reliance on Defendant's false and deceptive advertising, marketing and discounting pricing schemes, purchased several items that were displayed with a false reference price and a sale price. Plaintiff examined several products on Defendant's website before deciding to purchase the following items after reviewing each item's advertised sale price.

Item:	Quantity:	False Reference Price:	Price Paid by Plaintiff:
Magnet (3 x 5)	5	$5.99	$4.99
Acrylic Print (16 x 20)	1	$99.98	$69.99
20 x 30 Print	1	$22.99	$20.69
8 x 8 Print	1	$3.49	$3.14
5 x 7 Print	3	$0.99	$0.89

36. After observing the original price of the items and the accompanying the sale price, Plaintiff believed she was receiving a significant discount on the products she had chosen. Because she was interested in these products and felt that the discounted price would likely not last, and that she was getting a significant bargain on the products, she proceeded to finish checking out and purchased the above listed items by credit card on March 21, 2022. Specifically, Plaintiff's counsel's investigation independently verified that each of the items purchased by Plaintiff were not offered at the false reference price within 90 days of her purchase and were continuously discounted during that time period.

37. However, these products were never offered for sale at the original price listed on Defendant's e-commerce website and certainly not within the 90 days preceding Plaintiff's purchase. Neither Plaintiff's receipt nor any other language on the website observed or relied upon by Plaintiff indicated that the product was not offered previously at the advertised reference price.

38. Plaintiff reasonably relied upon Defendant's artificially inflated reference prices and false discounts when purchasing products from Defendant's e-commerce

1 website. Plaintiff would not have made such purchases but for Defendant's representations 2 regarding the substantial discount being offered for the product. Plaintiff would like to 3 continue buying from Defendant's e-commerce website in the future but cannot be certain 4 of the veracity of Defendant's advertised bargains.

5 39. Plaintiff and the Class reasonably and justifiably acted and relied on the 6 substantial price differences that Defendant advertised, and they made purchases believing 7 they were receiving a substantial discount on a product of greater value than the value it had 8 in actuality. Plaintiff, like other Class members, was lured in, relied on, and was damaged 9 by the deceptive pricing scheme Defendant carried out.

10 40. Plaintiff was damaged in her purchases because Defendant's false reference 11 price discounting scheme inflated the true market value of items she purchased. Plaintiff is 12 susceptible to this reoccurring harm because she and the proposed class cannot be certain 13 that Defendant has corrected this deceptive pricing scheme and they desire to shop at 14 Defendant's e-commerce website in the future. However, they currently cannot trust that 15 Defendant will accurately price its products truthfully and in a non-misleading fashion in 16 compliance with applicable law. Plaintiff and the Class do not have the resources on their 17 own to determine whether Defendant is complying with State and Federal law with respect 18 to its pricing practices.

19 41. Additionally, because of the wide selection of items available on Defendant's 20 website, and due to the likelihood that Defendant may yet develop and market additional 21 falsely priced items for sale online, Plaintiff may again, though by mistake, purchase a 22 falsely discounted item from Defendant under the impression that the advertised reference 23 price represented a bona fide former price at which the item was previously offered for sale 24 by Defendant. Indeed, Plaintiff desires to continue purchasing items from shutterfly.com in 25 the future. Moreover, Class members will continue to purchase Shutterfly products while 26 reasonably but incorrectly believing that their advertised reference prices represent bona 27 fide former prices at which they were previously offered for sale by Defendant.

28

1           42. Absent an equitable injunction enjoining Defendant from continuing in the 2 unlawful course of conduct alleged herein, Plaintiff, Class members and the public will be 3 irreparably harmed and denied an effective and complete remedy because they face a real 4 and tangible threat of future harm emanating from Defendant's ongoing conduct that cannot 5 be remedied with monetary damages. Accordingly, Plaintiff, Class members, and the 6 general public lack an adequate remedy at law and an injunction is the only form of relief 7 which will guarantee Plaintiff and other consumers the appropriate assurances.

8           43. Moreover, Plaintiff lacks an adequate remedy at law with respect to her claim 9 for equitable restitution because he has not yet retained an expert to determine whether an 10 award of damages can or will adequately remedy her monetary losses caused by Defendant.
11 Particularly, as legal damages focus on remedying the loss to the plaintiff and equitable 12 restitution focuses wholly distinctly on restoring monies wrongly acquired by the defendant, 13 legal damages are inadequate to remedy Plaintiff's loss because Plaintiff does not know at 14 this juncture, and is certainly not required to set forth evidence, whether a model for legal 15 damages (as opposed to equitable restitution) will be viable or will adequately compensate 16 Plaintiff's losses.

17           44. Finally, Plaintiff's case is substantially predicated on Defendant's violation of 18 CAL BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501, an equitable claim, as Plaintiff's counsel's investigation 19 revolved around ensuring that Defendant did not sell products at the indicated reference 20 price within the 90 days preceding Plaintiff's purchase and, likewise, that Defendant failed 21 to disclose to consumers the date on which products was last offered at its advertised 22 reference price. This claim and test of liability go to the heart of Plaintiff's case and the 23 same test is not available under a CLRA legal claim for damages. Thus, Plaintiff does not 24 have an adequate remedy at law because the CLRA does not provide the same metric of 25 liability as CAL BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501, which is integral not only to Plaintiff's prayer 26 for restitution, but also to Plaintiff's very theory of liability at trial.

27

28

1           Defendant

2           45. Defendant is incorporated in Delaware with its principal executive offices in 3 Redwood City, California. Plaintiff is informed and believes that Defendant operates its e-4 commerce website, shutterfly.com, and advertises, markets, distributes, and/or sells 5 products in California and throughout the United States. Defendant's Terms of Use provides 6 that all claims brought against Defendant, including Plaintiff's here, are governed by the 7 laws of the State of California.

8           46. Plaintiff does not know the true names or capacities of the persons or entities 9 sued herein as Does 1-50, inclusive, and therefore sues such defendants by such fictitious 10 names. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief alleges, that 11 each of the Doe defendants is in some manner legally responsible for the damages suffered 12 by Plaintiff and the Class members as alleged herein. Plaintiff will amend this Complaint 13 to set forth the true names and capacities of these defendants when they have been 14 ascertained, along with appropriate charging allegations, as may be necessary.

15           47. Defendant knows that its reference price advertising is false, deceptive, 16 misleading, and unlawful under California and federal law.

17           48. Defendant fraudulently concealed from and intentionally failed to disclose to 18 Plaintiff and other members of the Class the truth about its advertised discount prices and 19 former reference prices.

20           49. At all relevant times, Defendant has been under a duty to Plaintiff and the Class 21 to disclose the truth about its false discounts.

22           50. Plaintiff and the Class reasonably and justifiably acted and relied on the 23 substantial price differences that Defendant advertised, and made purchases believing that 24 they were receiving a substantial discount on a product of greater value than it actually was.
25 Plaintiff, like other Class members, was lured in, relied on, and was damaged by the 26 deceptive pricing scheme that Defendant carried out.

V. CLASS ALLEGATIONS

51. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of herself and all other similarly situated Class members pursuant to Rule 23(a), (b)(2) and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and seeks certification of the following Class against Defendant:

All persons, within the United States, who, within the preceding four years (the “Class Period”), purchased from Shutterfly’s e-commerce website, one or more products at discounts from an advertised reference price and who have not received a refund or credit for their purchase(s).

Excluded from the Class is Defendant, as well as its officers, employees, agents or affiliates, parent companies and/or subsidiaries, and each of their respective officers, employees, agents or affiliates, and any judge who presides over this action. Plaintiff reserves the right to expand, limit, modify, or amend this Class definition, including the addition of one or more subclasses, in connection with her motion for class certification, or at any other time, based upon, inter alia, changing circumstances and/or new facts obtained during discovery.

52. Numerosity: The Class members are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Plaintiff is informed and believes that the proposed Class contains at least thousands of individuals who have been damaged by Defendant’s conduct as alleged herein. The precise number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiff at this time, but Plaintiff expects it can readily be established through Defendant’s records.

53. Existence and Predominance of Common Questions of Law and Fact: This action involves common questions of law and fact, which predominate over any questions affecting individual Class members. These common legal and factual questions include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. whether, during the Class Period, Defendant used advertised false reference prices on products sold through its e-commerce website;
- b. whether, during the Class Period, the original price advertised by Defendant was the prevailing market price for the products in question during the

1 three months period preceding the dissemination and/or publication of the advertised 2 former prices;

3 c. whether Defendant's alleged conduct constitutes violations of the laws 4 asserted;

5 d. whether Defendant engaged in unfair, unlawful and/or fraudulent 6 business practices under the laws asserted;

7 e. whether Defendant engaged in false or misleading advertising;

8 f. whether Plaintiff and Class members are entitled to damages and/or 9 restitution and the proper measure of that loss;

10 g. whether an injunction is necessary to prevent Defendant from 11 continuing to use false, misleading or illegal price comparison; and 12 h. whether Plaintiff and the Class are entitled to an award of reasonable 13 attorneys' fees, interest, and costs of suit.

14 54. Typicality: Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the Class members 15 because, inter alia, all Class members have been deceived (or were likely to be deceived) 16 by Defendant's false and deceptive price advertising scheme, as alleged herein. Plaintiff is 17 advancing the same claims and legal theories on behalf of herself and all Class members.

18 55. Adequacy: Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class 19 members. Plaintiff has retained counsel experienced in complex consumer class action 20 litigation, and Plaintiff intends to prosecute this action vigorously. Plaintiff has no 21 antagonistic or adverse interest to those of the Class.

22 56. Superiority: The nature of this action and the nature of laws available to 23 Plaintiff and the Class make the use of the class action format a particularly efficient and 24 appropriate procedure to afford relief to him and the Class for the wrongs alleged. The 25 damages or other financial detriment suffered by individual Class members is relatively 26 modest compared to the burden and expense that would be entailed by individual litigation 27 of their claims against Defendant. It would thus be virtually impossible for Plaintiff and 28 Class members, on an individual basis, to obtain effective redress for the wrongs done to 1 them. Absent the class action, Class members and the general public would not likely 2 recover, or would not likely have the chance to recover, damages or restitution, and 3 Defendant will be permitted to retain the proceeds of its fraudulent and deceptive misdeeds.

4 57. All Class members, including Plaintiff, were exposed to one or more of 5 Defendant's misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in advertising false reference 6 prices. Due to the scope and extent of Defendant's consistent false sale prices, advertising 7 scheme, disseminated in a constant years-long campaign to consumers, it can be reasonably 8 inferred that such misrepresentations or omissions of material fact were uniformly made to 9 all members of the Class. In addition, it can be reasonably presumed that all Class members, 10 including Plaintiff, affirmatively acted in response to the representations contained in 11 Defendant's false advertising scheme when purchasing products sold through Defendant's 12 e-commerce website.

13 58. Defendant keeps extensive records of its customers through its online sales 14 data, as well as through, inter alia, general marketing programs. Defendant has one or more 15 databases through which all, or a significant majority of, Class members may be identified 16 and ascertained, and it maintains contact information, including email and home address, 17 through which notice of this action could be disseminated in accordance with due process 18 requirements.

19 VI. CAUSES OF ACTION

20 FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

21 Violation of California's Unfair Competition Law ("UCL")
22 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17200, *et seq.

23 59. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in every preceding 24 paragraph as if fully set forth herein.

25 60. The UCL defines "unfair business competition" to include any "unlawful, 26 unfair or fraudulent" act or practice, as well as any "unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading" 27 advertising. CAL. BUS. PROF. CODE § 17200.
28

1           61. The UCL imposes strict liability. Plaintiff need not prove that Defendant 2 intentionally or negligently engaged in unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business practices—3 but only that such practices occurred.

4           “Unfair” Prong

5           62. A business act or practice is “unfair” under the UCL if it offends an established 6 public policy or is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous or substantially injurious 7 to consumers, and that unfairness is determined by weighing the reasons, justifications and 8 motives of the practice against the gravity of the harm to the alleged victims.

9           63. Defendant’s actions constitute “unfair” business practices because, as alleged 10 above, Defendant engaged in misleading and deceptive price comparison advertising that 11 represented false reference prices and corresponding deeply discounted phantom “sale” 12 prices. Defendant’s acts and practices offended an established public policy of transparency 13 in pricing, and constituted immoral, unethical, oppressive, and unscrupulous activities that 14 are substantially injurious to consumers.

15           64. The harm to Plaintiff and Class members outweighs the utility of Defendant’s 16 practices because Defendant’s practice of advertising false discounts provides no utility.
17 There were reasonably available alternatives to further Defendant’s legitimate business 18 interests other than the misleading and deceptive conduct described herein.

19           “Fraudulent” Prong

20           65. A business act or practice is “fraudulent” under the UCL if it is likely to 21 deceive members of the consuming public.

22           66. Defendant’s acts and practices alleged above constitute fraudulent business 23 acts or practices as it has deceived Plaintiff and is highly likely to deceive members of the 24 consuming public. Plaintiff relied on Defendant’s fraudulent and deceptive representations 25 regarding its false or outdated “original prices” for products sold by Defendant through its 26 e-commerce website. These misrepresentations played a substantial role in Plaintiff’s 27 decision to purchase the product at a purportedly steep discount, and Plaintiff would not 28 have purchased the product without Defendant’s misrepresentations.

1           “Unlawful” Prong

2           67. A business act or practice is “unlawful” under the UCL if it violates any other 3 law or regulation.

4           68. Defendant’s act and practices alleged above constitute unlawful business acts 5 or practices as it has violated state and federal law in connection with its deceptive pricing 6 scheme. The FTCA prohibits “unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting 7 commerce” (15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1)) and prohibits the dissemination of any false 8 advertisements. 15 U.S.C. § 52(a). Under the FTC, false former pricing schemes, like 9 Defendant’s, are described as deceptive practices that would violate the FTCA:

10           (a) One of the most commonly used forms of bargain advertising is to offer a 11 reduction from the advertiser’s own former price for an article. If the former 12 priced is the actual, bona fide price at which the article was offered to the 13 public on a regular basis for a reasonably substantial period of time, it provides 14 a legitimate basis for the advertising of a price comparison. Where the former 15 price is genuine, the bargain being advertised is a true one. If, on the other 16 hand, the former price being advertised is not bona fide but fictitious – for 17 example, where an artificial, inflated price was established for the purpose 18 of enabling the subsequent offer of a large reduction – the “bargain” being 19 advertised is a false one; the purchaser is not receiving the unusual value he 20 expects. In such a case, the “reduced” price is, in reality, probably just the 21 seller’s regular price.

22           (b) A former price is not necessarily fictitious merely because no sales at the 23 advertised price were made. The advertiser should be especially careful, 24 however, in such a case, that the price is one at which the product was openly 25 and actively offered for sale, for a reasonably substantial period of time, in the 26 recent, regular course of his business, honestly and in good faith – and, of 27 course, not for the purpose of establishing a fictitious higher price on which a 28 deceptive comparison might be based.

1 16 C.F.R. § 233.1(a) and (b) (emphasis added).

2 69. In addition to federal law, California law also expressly prohibits false former 3 pricing schemes. The FAL, BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501, entitled “Worth or value; 4 statements as to former price,” states:

5 For the purpose of this article the worth or value of any thing advertised is the 6 prevailing market price, wholesale if the offer is at wholesale, retail if the offer 7 is at retail, at the time of publication of such advertisement in the locality 8 wherein the advertisement is published.

9 No price shall be advertised as a former price of any advertised thing, unless 10 the alleged former price was the prevailing market price as above defined 11 within three months next immediately preceding the publication of the 12 advertisement or unless the date when the alleged former price did prevail is 13 clearly, exactly and conspicuously stated in the advertisement.

14 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501.

15 70. As detailed in Plaintiff’s Third Cause of Action below, the CLRA, CAL. CIV.
16 CODE § 1770(a)(9), prohibits a business from “[a]dvertising goods or services with intent 17 not to sell them as advertised,” and subsection (a)(13) prohibits a business from “[m]aking 18 false or misleading statements of fact concerning reasons for, existence of, or amounts of 19 price reductions.”

20 71. As detailed herein, the acts and practices alleged were intended to or did result 21 in violations of the FTCA, the FAL, and the CLRA.

22 72. Defendant’s practices, as set forth above, misled Plaintiff, the proposed Class, 23 and the public in the past and will continue to mislead in the future. Consequently, 24 Defendant’s practices constitute an unlawful, fraudulent, and unfair business practice within 25 the meaning of the UCL.

26 73. Defendant’s violation of the UCL, through its unlawful, unfair, and fraudulent 27 business practices, are ongoing and present a continuing threat that Class members and the 28 public will be deceived into purchasing products based on price comparisons of arbitrary

1 and inflated “reference” prices and substantially discounted “sale” prices. These false 2 comparisons created phantom markdowns and lead to financial damage for consumers like 3 Plaintiff and the Class.

4 74. Pursuant to the UCL, Plaintiff is entitled to preliminary and permanent 5 injunctive relief enjoining Defendant from further engagement in this unfair competition, 6 as well as disgorgement and restitution to Plaintiff and the Class of all Defendant’s revenues 7 wrongfully obtained from them as a result of Defendant’s unfair competition, or such 8 portion of those revenues as the Court may find equitable.

9 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

10 Violation of California’s False Advertising Law (“FAL”)
11 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17500, *et seq.

12 75. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in every preceding 13 paragraph as if fully set forth herein.

14 76. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17500 provides:

15 It is unlawful for any . . . corporation . . . with intent directly or indirectly to 16 dispose of . . . personal property or to perform services, professional or 17 otherwise, or anything of any nature whatsoever or to induce the public to enter 18 into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made 19 or disseminated . . . from this state before the public in any state, in any 20 newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, or by public outcry 21 or proclamation, or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the 22 Internet, any statement, concerning that . . . personal property or those services 23 . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise 24 of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading . . .

25 (Emphasis added).

26 77. The “intent” required by section 17500 is the intent to make or disseminate 27 personal property (or cause such personal property to be made or disseminated), and not the 28 intent to mislead the public in the making or dissemination of such property.

1 78. Similarly, this section provides, “no price shall be advertised as a former price 2 of any advertised thing, unless the alleged former price was the prevailing market price ...
3 within three months next immediately preceding the publication of the advertisement or 4 unless the date when the alleged former price did prevail is clearly, exactly, and 5 conspicuously stated in the advertisement.” CAL BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501.

6 79. Defendant’s routine practice of advertising discounted prices from false 7 reference prices, which were never the prevailing market prices of those products and were 8 materially greater than the true prevailing prices (i.e., Defendant’s actual sale price), 9 constitutes an unfair, untrue, and misleading practice. Defendant’s deceptive marketing 10 practice gave consumers the false impression that the products on Defendant’s e-commerce 11 website were regularly sold on the market for a substantially higher price than the price for 12 which they were sold in actuality. Moreover, Defendant’s deceptive marketing practice 13 misled consumers by creating a false impression that the products sold through its e-14 commerce website were worth more than their actual worth.

15 80. Defendant misled consumers by making untrue and misleading statements and 16 failing to disclose what is required as stated in the Code alleged above.

17 81. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant’s misleading and false 18 advertisements, Plaintiff and Class members have suffered injury in fact and have lost 19 money. As such, Plaintiff requests that this Court order Defendant to restore this money to 20 Plaintiff and all Class members, and to enjoin Defendant from continuing these unfair 21 practices in violation of the UCL in the future. Otherwise, Plaintiff, Class members, and 22 the broader general public, will be irreparably harmed and/or denied an effective and 23 complete remedy.

24 82. Plaintiff Rose Rivali and Class members request that this Court order 25 Defendant to restore this money to Plaintiff Rose Rivali and the Class members, and to 26 enjoin Defendant from continuing these unfair practices in violation of the FAL in the 27 future. Otherwise, Plaintiff Rose Rivali, Class members, and the broader general public, 28 will be irreparably harmed and/or denied an effective and complete remedy.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California’s Consumers Legal Remedies Act (“CLRA”), CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, *et seq.

83. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in every preceding paragraph as if fully set forth herein.

84. This cause of action is brought pursuant to the CLRA, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, et seq. Plaintiff and each member of the proposed Class are “consumers” as defined by CAL. CIV. CODE § 1761(d). Defendant’s sale of products through its e-commerce website, shutterfly.com, were “transactions” within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1761(e). The products purchased by Plaintiff and the Class are “goods” or “services” within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1761(a) - (b).

85. Defendant violated and continues to violate the CLRA by engaging in the following practices proscribed by CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a) in transactions with Plaintiff and the Class which were intended to result in, and did result in, the sale of products sold through its website:

- a. advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised; § 1770(a)(9); and
- b. making false or misleading statements of fact concerning reasons for, existence of, or amounts of price reductions; § 1770(a)(13).

86. On April 1, 2022, Plaintiff, through counsel, sent a CLRA demand letter to Defendant that provided notice of Defendant’s violation of the CLRA and demanded Defendant correct, repair, replace, or otherwise rectify the unlawful, unfair, false, and deceptive practices complained of herein. The letter also stated that if Defendant refused to do so, Plaintiff would file a complaint seeking damages in accordance with the CLRA. If Defendant does not respond to Plaintiff’s letter or agree to rectify the problems associated with the actions detailed above and give notice to all affected consumers within 30 days of the date of written notice pursuant to § 1782, Plaintiff will amend her complaint to seek actual, punitive, and statutory damages, as appropriate against Defendant.

1 87. Filed concurrently herewith is a declaration of venue pursuant to CAL. CIV.
2 CODE §1780(d).

3 VII. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

4 Wherefore, Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and all other members of the Class, requests 5 that this Court award relief against Defendant as follows:

- 6 a. an order certifying the Class and designating Plaintiff as the Class 7 Representative and her counsel as Class Counsel;
- 8 b. awarding restitution and disgorgement of all profits and unjust 9 enrichment that Defendant obtained from Plaintiff and the Class members as a result 10 of its unlawful, unfair, and fraudulent business practices described herein;
- 11 c. awarding declaratory and injunctive relief as permitted by law or equity, 12 including: enjoining Defendant from continuing the unlawful practices as set forth 13 herein, and directing Defendant to identify, with Court supervision, victims of its 14 misconduct and pay them all money they are required to pay;
- 15 d. order Defendant to engage in a corrective advertising campaign;
- 16 e. awarding attorneys' fees and costs; and
- 17 f. for such other and further relief as the Court may deem necessary or 18 appropriate.

19 VIII. DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

20 Plaintiff hereby demands a jury trial for all of the claims so triable.
