Defendants.

Case No.

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

Violations of:

- 1. California’s Unfair Competition Laws (“UCL”),
CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17200, et seq.;
- 2. California’s False Advertising Laws (“FAL”),
CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17500, et seq.;
- 3. California Consumer Legal Remedies Act (“CLRA”),
CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1750, et seq.;

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

1 Plaintiff Jane Villalpando (“Plaintiff”) brings this action on behalf of herself and all 2 others similarly situated against Defendant Zale Corporation (“Defendant” or “Zales”), and 3 states:

4 I. NATURE OF THE ACTION

5 1. Discounts of products benefit both sellers and their customers—when they are 6 legitimate. To the detriment of consumers, as announced by the Ninth Circuit, sellers are 7 “well aware of consumers’ susceptibility to a bargain, [and] therefore have an incentive to 8 lie to their customers.” Hinojos v. Kohl’s Corp., 718 F.3d 1098, 1101 (9th Cir. 2013).
9 Products perceived by consumers as discounted are thus not always actual bargains, and 10 consumers’ perceptions can stem directly from sellers’ deceptions. This class action seeks 11 monetary damages, restitution, declaratory, and injunctive relief from Defendant arising 12 from its own deceptive business practice of advertising fictitious “original” prices and 13 corresponding phantom discounts on its e-commerce website, zalesoutlet.com, where it 14 sells engagement rings and other jewelry items.

15 2. False reference pricing occurs when a seller fabricates a false “original” price 16 for a product and then offers that product at a substantially lower price under the guise of a 17 sale. The resulting artificial price disparity misleads consumers into believing the product 18 they are buying has a higher market value, and it induces them into purchasing the product.
19 This practice artificially inflates the true market price for these products by raising 20 consumers’ internal reference price and in turn the value consumers ascribe to these 21 products (i.e., demand). Consequently, this reference pricing schemes enable retailers, like 22 Defendant, to sell products above their true market price and value—and consumers are left 23 to pay the price.

24 3. The following example of a hypothetical DVD seller, which is parallel to 25 Defendant’s deceptive business practice, illustrates the illegal false reference pricing 26 scheme and its attendant harm to consumers. A seller knows it can sell a particular DVD at 27 $5.00, which represents both the market price and the price at which the seller could 28 regularly offer the DVD and make a profit. Instead, however, the seller creates an inflated

1 “original” price for the DVD of $100.00 and advertises the DVD as “on sale” at 90% off 2 rendering the “sale” price of the DVD $10.00. When a consumer purchases the DVD, he 3 presumes he got a “good deal” on a DVD previously sold—i.e., valued by others in the 4 market—at an “original” price of $100.00. The consumer’s presumption and purchase stem 5 directly from the seller’s purposeful deception. For example, if the seller tried to sell that 6 same DVD for $10.00 without referencing a false original price of $100.00, and the 7 attendant 90% off discount, that seller would not be able to sell any DVDs at $10.00 because 8 the true, original market price of the DVD is $5.00. In contrast, by presenting consumers 9 with a false “original” price of $100.00, consumers will purchase the DVD at $10.00; the 10 seller thus has fabricated an increase in demand for the DVD through the perceived value 11 of both the DVD itself and the substantial discount of $90.00. Consumers’ increased 12 willingness and demand to pay $10.00 for the DVD will in turn impact the overall market 13 price of the DVD. Therefore, the seller can create a false market price for the DVD at $10.00 14 by advertising a false “original” price and a corresponding phantom discount of 90% off.
15 Plaintiff’s case seeks to remedy this deception, its attendant harm to consumers, and that 16 disparity—the impact on the increase in market price through the Defendant’s application 17 of an illegal discounting scheme.

18 4. It is well-established that false reference pricing violates federal law and 19 various state consumer protection statutes. Even so, sellers, including Defendant, continue 20 to use the tactic because they know they will be able to increase sales and profits by tricking 21 consumers into making purchasing decisions based on the advertised reference prices. The 22 information available to consumers varies for different types of products; nonetheless, 23 consumers frequently lack full information about products and as a result often use 24 information from sellers to make purchase decisions.

25 5. Through its false and misleading marketing, advertising, and pricing scheme 26 alleged herein, Defendant violated, and continues to violate, federal law and various state 27 consumer protection laws, which prohibit the advertisement of goods for sale discounted 28 from false former prices. These laws also prohibit the dissemination of misleading

1 statements about the existence and amount of price reductions. Specifically, Defendant 2 violated and continues to violate:

3 a. California’s Unfair Competition Law (“UCL”), CAL. BUS. & PROF.
4 CODE §§ 17200, et seq.;

5 b. California’s False Advertising Law (“FAL”), CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE 6 §§ 17500, et seq.; and

7 c. California Consumer Legal Remedies Act (“CLRA”), CAL. CIV. CODE 8 §§ 1750, et seq.

9 6. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of herself and other similarly situated 10 consumers who have purchased one or more products through zalesoutlet.com that were 11 deceptively represented as discounted from a false reference price. Plaintiff seeks to halt the 12 dissemination of this false, misleading, and deceptive pricing scheme, to correct the false 13 and misleading perception it has created in the minds of consumers, and to obtain redress 14 for those who have purchased products tainted by this deceptive pricing scheme. Plaintiff 15 also seeks to enjoin Defendant from using misrepresentations regarding former price 16 comparisons in its labeling, marketing, and advertising permanently. Furthermore, Plaintiff 17 seeks to obtain actual, statutory, and punitive damages, restitution, injunctive relief, 18 reasonable costs and attorneys’ fees, and other appropriate relief in the amount by which 19 Defendant was unjustly enriched as a result of its sales offered at a false discount.

20 II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

21 7. This Court has original jurisdiction of this action pursuant to the Class Action 22 Fairness Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2). The matter in controversy, exclusive of interest and 23 costs, exceeds the sum or value of $5,000,000 and at least some members of the proposed 24 Class (defined below) have a different citizenship from Defendant.

25 8. The Eastern District of California has personal jurisdiction over Defendant and 26 is the proper venue for this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(1) in that Plaintiff resides 27 and was injured in this district wherein a substantial part of the events or omissions giving 28 rise to her claims occurred. Further, Defendant is a corporation or other business entity that

1 conducts substantial business in this district and has sufficient minimum contacts in 2 California, and/or otherwise intentionally avails itself to the California market through the 3 operation of its e-commerce website.

4 III. GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

5 A. Retailers Benefit from False Reference Pricing Schemes.

6 9. Defendant engages in a false and misleading reference price scheme in the 7 marketing and selling of its products on its Zales e-commerce websites: zales.com and 8 zalesoutlet.com.

9 10. Sellers substantially benefit from employing false reference pricing schemes 10 and experience increased sales because consumers use advertised reference prices to make 11 purchase decisions. The information available to consumers can vary significantly amongst 12 different types of products.¹ Nonetheless, consumers frequently lack fundamental 13 information about products and as a result often rely on information from sellers to make 14 purchase decisions, especially when a product's value or quality is otherwise difficult to 15 discern.²

16 11. Consumers incorporate Defendant's deceptive advertised reference prices into 17 their decision processes for a few reasons. First, a product's "price is also used as an 18 indicator of product quality."³ In other words, consumers view Defendant's deceptive 19

20 ¹ Even within a product, consumers may have imperfect information on the individual 21 attributes. Economists describe "search goods" as those whose attributes "can be 22 ascertained in the search process prior to purchase" (e.g., style of a shirt), "experience 23 goods" as those whose attributes "can be discovered only after purchase as the product is 24 used" (e.g., longevity of a shirt), and "credence goods" as those whose attributes "cannot 25 be evaluated in normal use" (e.g., whether the shirt's cotton was produced using organic 26 farming methods). Darby, Michael R., and Edi Karni. "Free Competition and the Optimal 27 Amount of Fraud." The Journal of Law and Economics 16 no. 1 (1973): 67-88, pp. 68-69.

information is probably even poorer about the quality variation of products simply because the latter information is more difficult to obtain". Nelson, Phillip. "Information and Consumer Behavior." Journal of Political Economy 78, no. 2 (1970): 311-329, pp. 311-

1 advertised reference prices as a proxy for product quality. Second, reference prices 2 “appeal[] to consumers’ desire for bargains or deals.”⁴ Academic researchers note how 3 consumers “sometimes expend more time and energy to get a discount than seems 4 reasonable given the financial gain involved,” and “often derive more satisfaction from 5 finding a sale price than might be expected on the basis of the amount of money they 6 actually save.”⁵ Under this concept, coined “transaction utility” by Noble Prize-winning 7 economist Richard Thaler, consumers place some value on the psychological experience of 8 obtaining a product at a perceived bargain.⁶

9 12. Research in marketing and economics has long recognized that consumer 10 demand can be influenced by “internal” and “external” reference prices.⁷ Internal reference 11 prices are “prices stored in memory” (e.g., a consumer’s price expectations adapted from 12 past experience) while external reference prices are “provided by observed stimuli in the 13 purchase environment” (e.g., a “suggested retail price,” or other comparative sale price).⁸
 14 Researchers report that consumer’s internal reference prices adjust toward external 15 reference prices when valuing a product.⁹ For products purchased infrequently, external

16 _____
 17 often the good is purchased. The [reference price] is most likely to serve as a proxy for 18 quality when the consumer has trouble determining quality in other ways (such as by inspection”).

 22 Bargain.” Journal of Consumer Psychology 13, no 3 (2003): 328-338, p. 328.

23 ⁶ “To incorporate ... the psychology of buying into the model, two kinds of utility are 24 postulated: acquisition utility and transaction utility. The former depends on the value of 25 the good received compared to the outlay, the latter depends solely on the perceived merits 26 of the ‘deal’”. Thaler, Richard. “Mental Accounting and Consumer Choice.” Marketing Science 4, no. 3 (1985): 199-214, p. 205.

 28 decisions. The results also add empirical evidence that external reference prices significantly enter the brand-choice decision.” Mayhew, Glenn E. and Russell S. Winer.

 Reference Prices using Scanner Data.” Journal of Consumer Research 19, no. 1 (1992): 62-70, p. 62.

⁹ “Buyers’ internal reference prices adapt to the stimuli prices presented in the advertisement. That is, buyers either adjust their internal reference price or accept the

1 reference prices can be particularly influential because consumers have little or no prior 2 internal reference.¹⁰ In other words, “[t]he deceptive potential of such advertised reference 3 prices are likely to be considerably higher for buyers with less experience or knowledge of 4 the product and product category.”¹¹ Academic literature further reports that “there is ample 5 evidence that consumers use reference prices in making brand choices”¹² and publications 6 have summarized the empirical data as follows:

7 Inflated reference prices can have multiple effects on consumers. They can 8 increase consumers’ value perceptions (transaction value and acquisition 9 value), reduce their search intentions for lower prices, increase their purchase 10 intentions, and reduce their purchase intentions for competing products ...
 11 Inflated and/or false advertised reference prices enhance consumers’ internal 12 reference price estimates and, ultimately, increase their perceptions of value 13 and likelihood to purchase[.]¹³

14 13. Sellers, including Defendant, understand consumers are vulnerable to 15 perceived bargains. Thus, Defendant has a substantial financial interest in exploiting 16 consumers’ well-known behavioral tendencies by inducing consumers into believing they 17 are receiving a bargain—even when they are not. The phenomena of people 18 disproportionately relying on an initial piece of information when making a decision, known 19 as “anchoring,”¹⁴ is especially relevant in this context.¹⁵ Reference prices are often the first,

20 advertised reference price to make judgments about the product’s value and the value of the 21 deal.” Grewal, Dhruv, Kent B. Monroe, and Ramayya Krishnan. “The Effects of Price-22 Comparison Advertising on Buyers’ Perceptions of Acquisition Value, Transaction Value, 23 and Behavioral Intentions.” The Journal of Marketing 62 (1998): 46-59, p. 48.

24 ¹⁰ As Thalen notes, “the [suggested retail price] will be more successful as a reference price 25 the less often the good is purchased.” Thaler, Richard. “Mental Accounting and Consumer 26 Choice.” Marketing Science 4, no. 3 (1985): 199-214, p. 212.

¹⁵ Friedman, supra note 2, at 933.

1 if not the only, insight into a product besides the sale price itself. Thus, consumers use the 2 reference price as a baseline upon which to perceive a product's value.

3 B. State and Federal Pricing Regulations Prohibit False “Original price” 4 references and Out-Dated “Original price” references.

5 14. Under California law, for instance, a seller may only discount an item from its 6 own original price for up to 90 days, or, in the alternative, a seller may offer a discount 7 from the original price of an item being offered by a competitor, within the relevant market, 8 for up to 90 days. In either scenario, a seller can only offer a “sale” from an original price 9 for 90 days. At that point, on day 91, the seller has two options: the product must either 10 return to its full original price or the seller may continue to sell the product at the discounted 11 price as long as it discloses to the consumer the date on which the product was last offered 12 for sale at its alleged former price. See BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501. Under California law, 13 a seller cannot use an old, outdated, “original price” as the basis for a sale or discount, unless 14 it discloses to the consumer the date on which the prior original price was offered in the 15 market. Id.

16 15. Finally, under the FTCA, when a seller offers a discount from its own, former 17 original price, the original price is required to have been a price at which the seller held 18 that item out for sale on a regular basis, for a commercially reasonable period of time. See 19 16 C.F.R. § 233.1(a) and (b).

20 C. Defendant’s Fraudulent Price Discounting Scheme Violates California 21 and Other State Laws and Federal Regulations.

22 16. Defendant engages in a false and misleading reference price scheme in the 23 marketing and selling of the products offered on its e-commerce website. Defendant 24 advertises engagement rings and other jewelry for sale by listing them with a fictitious 25 original price and a corresponding sale price. The original price communicates “the 26 product’s worth and the prestige that ownership of the product conveys.” Hinojos, 718 F.3d 27 at 1106 (citing Dhruv Grewal & Larry D. Compeau, Comparative Price Advertising: 28 Informative or Deceptive?, 11 J. Pub. Pol’y & Mktg. 52, 55 (Spring 1992) (“By creating an

1 impression of savings, the presence of a higher reference price enhances subjects' perceived 2 value and willingness to buy the product.”). “Misinformation about a product's ‘normal’ 3 price is . . . significant to many consumers in the same way as a false product label would 4 be.” Hinojos, 718 F.3d at 1106.

5 17. Defendant consistently advertises its products on its e-commerce website 6 alongside an “original” price and the corresponding sale price, with a calculation of the 7 discount percentage in parenthesis next to the sale price or, in the alternative offers an 8 automated “discount code” that auto-populates the customers' purchase transaction and 9 discounts the “original” price by ten (10%) to fifty (50%) percent off. Defendant advertises 10 a seemingly original price, in truth a false reference price, with a strikethrough or the 11 automated discount code. The false references prices are demarcated and listed as “Orig.
12 Price” on Defendant's e-commerce website's product listing pages, and they operate as a 13 baseline consumers rely on to assess a product's value. The discount percentage is often 14 shown alongside the “original” price to communicate to consumers that Defendant is selling 15 a product at a substantial discount, even though the product is not in fact discounted. The 16 sale price displayed directly next to the false reference price conveys the “deep discount” 17 at which Defendant presently offers a product, ostensibly for a limited time.

18 18. However, the products sold on Defendant's e-commerce website are never sold 19 at the price displayed with a strikethrough—the price consumers are led to presume is the 20 full original price. The “deep discount” of products communicated to consumers viewing 21 Defendant's e-commerce website constitutes a misrepresentation by Defendant. The 22 “original” price merely serves as a false reference price Defendant uses as part of a larger 23 scheme to deceptively manufacture false discounts to incentivize consumers to make 24 purchases.

25 19. To reiterate, the engagement rings and jewelry sold on zalesoutlet.com show 26 the “original” price with a strikethrough alongside the corresponding sale price immediately 27 next to a picture of the product. For example, as seen in Exhibit A, a necklace entitled 28 “Enhanced Black and White Diamond Accent ‘MOM’ Infinity Pendant in Sterling Silver

1 and 10K Rose Gold” shows an “original” price—designated the “Ticketed Value”—of 2 “$299.00” directly above a “sale” price of “$89.99” alongside a 70% sign. Attached hereto
3 as Exhibit A are numerous snapshots from zalesoutlet.com depicting falsely discounted 4 merchandise as well as snapshots of the website acquired from the Wayback Machine—a 5 well-regarded archive of internet webpages as they existed at a singular point in time (as 6 shown by the date atop each page)—depicting the false reference pricing scheme, including 7 of the product used in the above-mentioned example.

8 20. Defendant’s purposeful practice operates by deceiving consumers into 9 (1) making purchases they otherwise would not have made and (2) paying substantially 10 more for products that consumers believed are heavily discounted and thus worth more than 11 their actual value. The only plausible explanation for Defendant’s above illustrated practice 12 is to drive sales, artificially inflate the perceived value of its products, and, as a result, 13 artificially inflate the price at which consumers are willing to buy its products. Defendant 14 has, and without intervention will continue to, increase sales by creating the illusion of 15 short-lived bargains through purporting to offer products on sale from false original prices.

16 21. Defendant’s perpetual listings of its products as discounted on its e-commerce 17 website constitute false, fraudulent, and deceptive advertising because the advertised 18 reference prices it displays list substantially higher prices than those ever offered by 19 Defendant. The reference prices only serve to deceive consumers; they function as 20 benchmark prices from which the false discount and corresponding “sale” price are derived.
21 Defendant’s scheme tricks consumers into justifiably believing they are getting a significant 22 deal when in reality consumers are paying the usual retail price for products.

23 22. In sum, the false reference prices, the strikethrough of said prices, and the sale 24 prices all displayed next to each other on product listing pages on Defendant’s e-commerce 25 website are all part of Defendant’s purposeful, deceptive scheme. The products sold through 26 Defendant’s e-commerce website are never offered for sale, nor sold, at the advertised false 27 reference price. Defendant advertises false reference prices with a purpose to induce 28 consumers into believing its products were once sold at said price. The strikethrough of the 1 false reference prices next to products creates a false sense of urgency in consumers.

2 Defendant intends for consumers to be misled that Defendant will sell its products at the 3 advertised, higher reference price “again” if they do not purchase its products soon; and 4 consumers are misled. Consumers believe they are receiving a substantial bargain when 5 they purchase products on Defendant’s e-commerce website at the “discounted” sale price.
6 However, Defendant did not actually sell products on its e-commerce website at the 7 advertised reference prices within 90 days of discounting them. In fact, Defendant never 8 offered or sold products at their advertised false reference price, and consumers thus never 9 received a true bargain. All while fully aware of its deception, Defendant has achieved, and 10 might continue to achieve, its ultimate, continuing purpose of driving sales with sham 11 markdowns.

12 23. Nowhere on Defendant’s e-commerce website does Defendant disclose that 13 the reference or “original” prices used are not former price or recent, within 90 days, 14 regularly offered former prices, or prices at which identical products are sold elsewhere in 15 the market. The omission of these disclosures, coupled with Defendant’s use of fictitious 16 advertised reference prices, renders Defendant’s pricing scheme inherently misleading.

17 24. Moreover, the advertised discounts were fictitious because the reference prices 18 did not represent a bona fide price at which Defendant previously sold or offered to sell the 19 products, on a regular basis, for a commercially reasonable period of time, as required by 20 the Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”). In addition, the represented advertised reference 21 prices were not the prevailing market retail price within the three months (90 days) 22 immediately preceding the publication of the advertised former reference price, as required 23 by California law.

24 25. Thus, Defendant’s scheme intends to, and does, provide misinformation to the 25 customer. The misinformation communicates to consumers, including Plaintiff, that the 26 products sold on Defendant’s e-commerce website have greater value than the advertised 27 discounted price.

28

1 26. The reference prices listed and advertised on products sold through 2 Defendant's e-commerce website are false or severely outdated reference prices, utilized 3 only to perpetuate Defendant's false discount scheme.

4 27. Defendant knows that its reference price advertising is false, deceptive, 5 misleading, and unlawful under state and federal law.

6 28. Defendant fraudulently concealed from and intentionally failed to disclose the 7 truth about its advertised discount prices and former reference prices to Plaintiff and other 8 members of the Class.

9 29. At all relevant times, Defendant has been under a duty to Plaintiff and the Class 10 to disclose the truth about its false discounts.

11 D. Investigation

12 30. Products sold on Zales' e-commerce websites, zales.com and zalesoutlet.com 13 are priced uniformly. In other words, the products sold by Defendant bear a substantially 14 discounted sale price that appears next to both the "crossed out" or "strikethrough" 15 "original" price, and the discount percentage, appearing in parenthesis as "___% off." In 16 the alternative for those items not listed in the strikethrough format, Zales offers an ever-17 present discount code, which auto-populates the customers' purchase transaction, reducing 18 the "original" price by the preset discount code, frequently, 10 to 15% off. Plaintiff's 19 counsel's investigation confirmed that the merchandise purchased by Plaintiff was priced 20 with a false reference price and a corresponding discounted price for at least the 90-day 21 period immediately preceding Plaintiff's purchase. The merchandise purchased by Plaintiff 22 was not, and are not, offered for sale in any other market.

23 31. Plaintiff's counsel conducted a thorough investigation of Defendant's website.
24 Plaintiff's counsel deployed a sophisticated software program to track each item offered for 25 sale on the zales.com website. A sample of the items tracked are attached as Exhibit B. For 26 the duration of the tracking period, each product remained significantly discounted from its 27 reference price or in the alternative, there was a blanket discount code issued for the non-28

1 discounted items. The investigation indicated the false reference pricing scheme was 2 uniform across Defendant's e-commerce website.

3 32. Plaintiff's counsel also researched Defendant's e-commerce website through 4 the Wayback Machine. The website snapshots recorded by the Wayback Machine observed 5 across the several months before and after Plaintiff's purchase indicated perpetual 6 discounting uniformly across Defendant's products.

7 33. The false reference price and corresponding discount price scheme were both 8 uniform and identical on almost all products sold through Defendant's e-commerce website.
9 The only change was the requisite "___% off" on certain products.

10 34. Thus, the fraudulent price scheme applies to all products offered for sale 11 through Defendant's e-commerce website, including the product purchased by Plaintiff.

12 IV. PARTIES

13 Plaintiff

14 35. Plaintiff resides in Madera, California. Plaintiff, in reliance on Defendant's 15 false and deceptive advertising, marketing and discounting pricing schemes, purchased "e-16 commerce website on or about November 8, 2021. Plaintiff examined several products on 17 Defendant's website before deciding to purchase the Heart-Shaped Simulated Birthstone 18 Script Name Necklace in Sterling Silver (1 Name and Stone – 16") after reviewing the 19 item's advertised sale price. The item Plaintiff purchased was advertised as having an 20 original price of $49.00 that was higher than the sale price of $41.65.

21 36. After observing the original price of the item and the accompanying the sale 22 price, Plaintiff believed she was receiving a significant discount on the product she had 23 chosen. Because she was interested in the necklace and felt that the discounted price would 24 likely not last, and that she was getting a significant bargain on the product, she proceeded 25 to finish checking out and purchased the necklace for $41.65 plus tax for a total of $45.09.

26 37. However, this product was never offered for sale at the original price listed on 27 Zales' e-commerce website and certainly not within the 90 days preceding Plaintiff's 28 purchase. Neither Plaintiff's receipt nor any other language on the website observed or 1 relied upon by Plaintiff indicated that the product was not offered previously at the 2 advertised reference price.

3 38. Plaintiff's case is substantially predicated on Defendant's violation of CAL 4 BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501, an equitable claim, as Plaintiff's counsel's investigation 5 revolved around ensuring that Defendant did not sell products at the indicated reference 6 price within the 90 days preceding Plaintiff's purchase and, likewise, that Defendant failed 7 to disclose to consumers the date on which products was last offered at its advertised 8 reference price. This claim and test of liability go to the heart of Plaintiff's case and the 9 same test is not available under a CLRA legal claim for damages. Thus, Plaintiff does not 10 have an adequate remedy at law because the CLRA does not provide the same metric of 11 liability as CAL BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501, which is integral not only to Plaintiff's prayer 12 for restitution, but also to Plaintiff's very theory of liability at trial.

13 39. Plaintiff reasonably relied upon Defendant's artificially inflated reference 14 prices and false discounts when purchasing the product from Defendant's e-commerce 15 website. Plaintiff would not have made such purchas but for Defendant's representations 16 regarding the substantial discount being offered for the product. Plaintiff would like to 17 continue buying from Defendant's e-commerce website in the future but cannot be certain 18 of the veracity of Defendant's advertised bargains.

19 40. Plaintiff and the Class reasonably and justifiably acted and relied on the 20 substantial price differences that Defendant advertised, and they made purchases believing 21 they were receiving a substantial discount on a product of greater value than the value it had 22 in actuality. Plaintiff, like other Class members, was lured in, relied on, and was damaged 23 by the deceptive pricing scheme Defendant carried out.

24 41. Plaintiff was damaged in her purchase because Defendant's false reference 25 price discounting scheme inflated the true market value of item she purchased. Plaintiff is 26 susceptible to this reoccurring harm because she cannot be certain that Defendant has 27 corrected this deceptive pricing scheme and she desires to shop at Zales' e-commerce 28 website in the future. However, she currently cannot trust that Defendant will accurately

1 price its products truthfully and in a non-misleading fashion in compliance with applicable 2 law. Plaintiff and the proposed Class do not have the resources on their own to determine 3 whether Defendant is complying with California and Federal law with respect to its pricing 4 practices.

5 42. Additionally, because of the wide selection of jewelry available on 6 Defendant's website, and due to the likelihood that Defendant may yet develop and market 7 additional falsely priced products for sale online, Plaintiff may again, though by mistake, 8 purchase a falsely discounted product from Defendant under the impression that the 9 advertised reference price represented a bona fide former price at which the item was 10 previously offered for sale by Defendant. Indeed, Plaintiff desires to continue purchasing 11 jewelry from zales.com and zalesoutlet.com in the future. Moreover, Class members will 12 continue to purchase the items from Zales while reasonably but incorrectly believing that 13 their advertised reference prices represent bona fide former prices at which they were 14 previously offered for sale by Defendant.

15 43. Absent an equitable injunction enjoining Defendant from continuing in the 16 unlawful course of conduct alleged herein, Plaintiff, Class members, and the public will be 17 irreparably harmed and denied an effective and complete remedy because they face a real 18 and tangible threat of future harm emanating from Defendant's ongoing conduct that cannot 19 be remedied with monetary damages. Accordingly, Plaintiff, Class members, and the 20 general public lack an adequate remedy at law and an injunction is the only form of relief 21 which will guarantee Plaintiff and other consumers the appropriate assurances.

22 44. Moreover, Plaintiff and the proposed Class lack an adequate remedy at law 23 with respect to the claim for equitable restitution because they have not yet retained an 24 expert to determine whether an award of damages can or will adequately remedy the 25 monetary losses caused by Defendant. Particularly, as legal damages focus on remedying 26 the loss to the plaintiff and equitable restitution focuses wholly distinctly on restoring 27 monies wrongly acquired by the defendant, legal damages are inadequate to remedy 28 Plaintiff's loss because Plaintiff does not know at this juncture, and is certainly not required

1 to set forth evidence, whether a model for legal damages (as opposed to equitable 2 restitution) will be viable or will adequately compensate Plaintiff's losses.

3 Defendant

4 45. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief 5 alleges, Defendant Zales is a corporation incorporated under in Delaware with its principal 6 executive offices in Coppell, Texas. Defendant operates Zales retail stores as well as 7 zalesoutlet.com website, and advertises, markets, distributes, and/or sells engagement rings 8 and other jewelry products in California, and throughout the United States. Plaintiff is 9 informed and believe and thereon alleges that Zales employs over 12,000 employees and 10 has annual sales revenue exceeding $1 billion. Zales was acquired by corporate-parent 11 Signet Jewelers in 2014.

12 46. Plaintiff does not know the true names or capacities of the persons or entities 13 sued herein as Does 1-50, inclusive, and therefore sue such defendants by such fictitious 14 names. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief alleges, that 15 each of the Doe defendants are in some manner legally responsible for the damages suffered 16 by Plaintiff and the Class members as alleged herein. Plaintiff will amend this Complaint 17 to set forth the true names and capacities of these defendants when they have been 18 ascertained, along with appropriate charging allegations, as may be necessary.

19 v. CLASS ALLEGATIONS

20 47. Plaintiff bring this action on behalf of herself and all other similarly situated 21 Class members pursuant to Rule 23(a), (b)(2) and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil 22 Procedure and seeks certification of the following Class against Defendant:

23 All persons, within the State of California, who, within the applicable statutory 24 period (the "Class Period"), purchased from Zales' e-commerce websites, 25 zales.com or zalesoutlet.com, one or more products at discounts from an advertised reference price and who have not received a refund or credit for their purchase(s).

26 Excluded from the Class are Defendant, as well as its officers, employees, agents or 27 affiliates, parent companies and/or subsidiaries, and each of their respective officers, 28 employees, agents or affiliates, and any judge who presides over this action. Plaintiff

1 reserves the right to expand, limit, modify, or amend this Class definition, including the 2 addition of one or more subclasses, in connection with their motion for class certification, 3 or at any other time, based upon, inter alia, changing circumstances and/or new facts 4 obtained during discovery.

5 48. Numerosity: Members of the Class are so numerous that joinder of all 6 members is impracticable. Plaintiff is informed and believe that the proposed Class contains 7 at least thousands of individuals who have been damaged by Defendant's conduct as alleged 8 herein. The precise number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiff at this time, but 9 Plaintiff expects it can readily be established through Defendant's records.

10 49. Existence and Predominance of Common Questions of Law and Fact: This 11 action involves common questions of law and fact, which predominate over any questions 12 affecting individual Class members. These common legal and factual questions include, but 13 are not limited to, the following:

14 a. whether, during the Class Period, Defendant used advertised false 15 reference prices on products sold through its e-commerce website;

16 b. whether, during the Class Period, the original price advertised by 17 Defendant was the prevailing market price for the products in question during the 18 three months period preceding the dissemination and/or publication of the advertised 19 former prices;

20 c. whether Defendant's alleged conduct constitutes violations of the laws 21 asserted;

22 d. whether Defendant engaged in unfair, unlawful and/or fraudulent 23 business practices under the laws asserted;

24 e. whether Defendant engaged in false or misleading advertising;

25 f. whether Plaintiff and members of the Class are entitled to damages 26 and/or restitution and the proper measure of that loss;

27 g. whether an injunction is necessary to prevent Defendant from 28 continuing to use false, misleading or illegal price comparison; and

1 h. whether Plaintiff and members of the Class are entitled to an award of 2 reasonable attorneys' fees, interest, and costs of suit.

3 50. Typicality: Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the members of the 4 Class because, inter alia, all members of the Class have been deceived (or were likely to be 5 deceived) by Defendant's false and deceptive price advertising scheme, as alleged herein.
6 Plaintiff is advancing the same claims and legal theories on behalf of herself and all 7 members of the Class.

8 51. Adequacy: Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the 9 members of the Class. Plaintiff has retained counsel experienced in complex consumer class 10 action litigation, and Plaintiff intends to prosecute this action vigorously. Plaintiff has no 11 antagonistic or adverse interest to those of the Class.

12 52. Superiority: The nature of this action and the nature of laws available to 13 Plaintiff and the Class make the use of the class action format a particularly efficient and 14 appropriate procedure to afford relief to her and the Class for the wrongs alleged. The 15 damages or other financial detriment suffered by individual members of the Class is 16 relatively modest compared to the burden and expense that would be entailed by individual 17 litigation of their claims against Defendant. It would thus be virtually impossible for 18 Plaintiff and members of the Class, on an individual basis, to obtain effective redress for 19 the wrongs done to them. Absent the class action, members of the Class and the general 20 public would not likely recover, or would not likely have the chance to recover, damages, 21 restitution, or injunctive relief, and Defendant will be permitted to retain the proceeds of its 22 fraudulent and deceptive misdeeds

23 53. All members of the Class, including Plaintiff, were exposed to one or more of 24 Defendant's misrepresentations or omissions of material fact in advertising false reference 25 prices. Due to the scope and extent of Defendant's consistent false sale prices and 26 advertising scheme, disseminated in a constant years-long campaign to consumers, it can 27 be reasonably inferred that such misrepresentations or omissions of material fact were 28 uniformly made to all members of the Class. In addition, it can be reasonably presumed that

1 all members of the Class, including Plaintiff, affirmatively acted in response to the 2 representations contained in Defendant’s false advertising scheme when purchasing 3 products sold through Defendant’s e-commerce website.

4 54. Ascertainability: Defendant keeps extensive computerized records of its 5 customers through, inter alia, customer loyalty programs, co-branded credit cards and 6 general marketing programs. Defendant has one or more databases through which a 7 significant majority of members of the Class may be identified and ascertained, and it 8 maintains contact information, including email and home addresses, through which notice 9 of this action could be disseminated in accordance with due process requirements.

10 VI. CAUSES OF ACTION

11 FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

12 Violation of California’s Unfair Competition Law (“UCL”)
13 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17200, *et seq.

14 55. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in every preceding 15 paragraph as if fully set forth herein.

16 56. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of the members of the 17 proposed Class against Defendant for violations of the UCL, CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE 18 §§ 17200, et seq.

19 57. The UCL defines “unfair business competition” to include any “unlawful, 20 unfair or fraudulent” act or practice, as well as any “unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading” 21 advertising. CAL. BUS. PROF. CODE § 17200.

22 58. The UCL imposes strict liability. Plaintiff and members of the Class need not 23 prove that Defendant intentionally or negligently engaged in unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent 24 business practices—but only that such practices occurred.

25 “Unfair” Prong

26 59. A business act or practice is “unfair” under the UCL if it offends an established 27 public policy or is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous or substantially injurious 28

1 to consumers, and that unfairness is determined by weighing the reasons, justifications and 2 motives of the practice against the gravity of the harm to the alleged victims.

3 60. Defendant’s actions constitute “unfair” business practices because, as alleged 4 above, Defendant engaged in misleading and deceptive price comparison advertising that 5 represented false reference prices and corresponding deeply discounted phantom “sale” 6 prices. Defendant’s acts and practices offended an established public policy of transparency 7 in pricing, and constituted immoral, unethical, oppressive, and unscrupulous activities that 8 are substantially injurious to consumers.

9 61. The harm to Plaintiff and members of the Class outweigh the utility of 10 Defendant’s practices because Defendant’s practice of advertising false discounts provides 11 no utility and only harms consumers. There were reasonably available alternatives to further 12 Defendant’s legitimate business interests other than the misleading and deceptive conduct 13 described herein.

14 “Fraudulent” Prong

15 62. A business act or practice is “fraudulent” under the UCL if it is likely to 16 deceive members of the consuming public.

17 63. Defendant’s acts and practices alleged above constitute fraudulent business 18 acts or practices as they have deceived Plaintiff and members of the Class and are highly 19 likely to deceive members of the consuming public. Plaintiff and members of the Class 20 relied on Defendant’s fraudulent and deceptive representations regarding its false or 21 outdated “original prices” for products sold by Defendant through its e-commerce website.
22 These misrepresentations played a substantial role in Plaintiff’s and members of the Class’s 23 decision to purchase the product at a purportedly steep discount, and Plaintiff and members 24 of the Class would not have purchased the product without Defendant’s misrepresentations.

25 “Unlawful” Prong

26 64. A business act or practice is “unlawful” under the UCL if it violates any other 27 law or regulation.

28

1 65. Defendant’s act and practices alleged above constitute unlawful business acts 2 or practices as it has violated state and federal law in connection with its deceptive pricing 3 scheme. The FTCA prohibits “unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting 4 commerce” (15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1)) and prohibits the dissemination of any false 5 advertisements. 15 U.S.C. § 52(a). Under the FTC, false former pricing schemes, like 6 Defendant’s, are described as deceptive practices that would violate the FTCA:

7 (a) One of the most commonly used forms of bargain advertising is to offer a 8 reduction from the advertiser’s own former price for an article. If the former 9 priced is the actual, bona fide price at which the article was offered to the 10 public on a regular basis for a reasonably substantial period of time, it provides 11 a legitimate basis for the advertising of a price comparison. Where the former 12 price is genuine, the bargain being advertised is a true one. If, on the other 13 hand, the former price being advertised is not bona fide but fictitious – for 14 example, where an artificial, inflated price was established for the purpose 15 of enabling the subsequent offer of a large reduction – the “bargain” being 16 advertised is a false one; the purchaser is not receiving the unusual value he 17 expects. In such a case, the “reduced” price is, in reality, probably just the 18 seller’s regular price.

19 (b) A former price is not necessarily fictitious merely because no sales at the 20 advertised price were made. The advertiser should be especially careful, 21 however, in such a case, that the price is one at which the product was openly 22 and actively offered for sale, for a reasonably substantial period of time, in the 23 recent, regular course of his business, honestly and in good faith – and, of 24 course, not for the purpose of establishing a fictitious higher price on which a 25 deceptive comparison might be based.

26 16 C.F.R. § 233.1(a) and (b) (emphasis added).

27 66. In addition to federal law, California law also expressly prohibits false former 28 pricing schemes. The FAL, CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501, entitled “Worth or value; statements as to former price,” states:

For the purpose of this article the worth or value of any thing advertised is the prevailing market price, wholesale if the offer is at wholesale, retail if the offer is at retail, at the time of publication of such advertisement in the locality wherein the advertisement is published.

No price shall be advertised as a former price of any advertised thing, unless the alleged former price was the prevailing market price as above defined within three months next immediately preceding the publication of the advertisement or unless the date when the alleged former price did prevail is clearly, exactly and conspicuously stated in the advertisement.

CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501.

1 67. As detailed in Plaintiff’s Third Cause of Action below, the CLRA, CAL. CIV.
2 CODE § 1770(a)(9), prohibits a business from “[a]dvertising goods or services with intent 3 not to sell them as advertised,” and subsection (a)(13) prohibits a business from “[m]aking 4 false or misleading statements of fact concerning reasons for, existence of, or amounts of 5 price reductions.”

6 68. As detailed herein, the acts and practices alleged were intended to or did result 7 in violations of the FTCA, the FAL, and the CLRA.

8 69. Defendant’s practices, as set forth above, misled Plaintiff, the proposed Class, 9 and the public in the past and will continue to mislead in the future. Consequently, 10 Defendant’s practices constitute an unlawful, fraudulent, and unfair business practice within 11 the meaning of the UCL.

12 70. Defendant’s violations of the UCL, through its unlawful, unfair, and fraudulent 13 business practices, are ongoing and present a continuing threat that members of the Class 14 and the public will be deceived into purchasing products based on price comparisons of 15 arbitrary and inflated “reference” prices and substantially discounted “sale” prices. These 16 false comparisons created phantom markdowns and lead to financial damage for consumers 17 like Plaintiff and the members of the Class.

18 71. Pursuant to the UCL, Plaintiff and members of the Class are entitled to 19 preliminary and permanent injunctive relief enjoining Defendant from further engagement 20 in this unfair competition, as well as disgorgement and restitution to Plaintiff and the Class 21 of all Defendant’s revenues wrongfully obtained from them as a result of Defendant’s unfair 22 competition, or such portion of those revenues as the Court may find equitable.

23 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

24 Violation of California’s False Advertising Law (“FAL”)
25 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17500, *et seq.

26 72. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in every preceding 27 paragraph as if fully set forth herein.
28

1 73. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of the members of the 2 proposed California class against Defendant for violations of the FAL, CAL. BUS. & PROF.
3 CODE §§ 17500, et seq.

4 74. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17500 provides:

5 It is unlawful for any . . . corporation . . . with intent directly or indirectly to 6 dispose of . . . personal property or to perform services, professional or 7 otherwise, or anything of any nature whatsoever or to induce the public to 8 enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to 9 be made or disseminated . . . from this state before the public in any state, in 10 any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, or by public 11 outcry or proclamation, or in any other manner or means whatever, including 12 over the Internet, any statement, concerning that . . . personal property or those 13 services . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by 14 the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading .
15 ..

16 (Emphasis added).

17 75. The “intent” required by section 17500 is the intent to make or disseminate 18 personal property (or cause such personal property to be made or disseminated), and not the 19 intent to mislead the public in the making or dissemination of such property.

20 76. Similarly, this section provides, “[n]o price shall be advertised as a former 21 price of any advertised thing, unless the alleged former price was the prevailing market 22 price ... within three months next immediately preceding the publication of the 23 advertisement or unless the date when the alleged former price did prevail is clearly, exactly, 24 and conspicuously stated in the advertisement.” CAL BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17501.

25 77. Defendant’s routine practice of advertising discounted prices from false 26 reference prices, which were never the prevailing market prices of those products and were 27 materially greater than the true prevailing prices (i.e., Defendant’s actual sale price), 28 constitutes an unfair, untrue, and misleading practice. Defendant’s deceptive marketing practice gave consumers the false impression that the products on Defendant’s e-commerce website were regularly sold on the market for a substantially higher price than the price for which they were sold in actuality. Moreover, Defendant’s deceptive marketing practice misled consumers by creating a false impression that the products sold through its e-commerce website were worth more than their actual worth.

1 78. Defendant misled consumers by making untrue and misleading statements and 2 failing to disclose what is required as stated in the Code alleged above.

3 79. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant 's misleading and false 4 advertisements, as well as Defendant's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made during 5 the course of Defendant's business, Plaintiff and members of the Class suffered 6 ascertainable loss and actual damages.

7 80. Plaintiff and members of the Class request that this Court order Defendant to 8 restore this money to Plaintiff and all members of the Class, and to enjoin Defendant from 9 continuing these unfair practices in violation of the FAL in the future. Otherwise, Plaintiff, 10 members of the Class, and the broader general public, will be irreparably harmed and/or 11 denied an effective and complete remedy.

12 THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

13 Violation of California's Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA"), 14 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, *et seq.

15 81. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in every preceding 16 paragraph as if fully set forth herein.

17 82. Plaintiff brings this claim individually and on behalf of the members of the 18 proposed California class against Defendant for violations of the CLRA, CAL. CIV. CODE 19 § 1750, et seq.

20 83. Plaintiff and each member of the proposed Class are "consumers" as defined 21 by CAL. CIV. CODE § 1761(d). Defendant's sale of products through its e-commerce 22 website, zalesoutlet.com, were "transactions" within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE 23 § 1761(e). The products purchased by Plaintiff and members of the Class are "goods" or 24 "services" within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1761(a) - (b).

25 84. Defendant violated and continues to violate the CLRA by engaging in the 26 following practices proscribed by CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a) in transactions with Plaintiff 27 and members of the Class which were intended to result in, and did result in, the sale of 28 products sold through its website:

1 a. advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised; 2 § 1770(a)(9); and

3 b. making false or misleading statements of fact concerning reasons for, 4 existence of, or amounts of price reductions; § 1770(a)(13).

5 85. On April 14, 2022, Plaintiff, through counsel, sent a CLRA demand letter to 6 Defendant that provided notice of Defendant's violation of the CLRA and demanded 7 Defendant correct, repair, replace, or otherwise rectify the unlawful, unfair, false, and 8 deceptive practices complained of herein. The letter also stated that if Defendant refused to 9 do so, Plaintiff would file a complaint seeking damages in accordance with the CLRA. If 10 Defendant does not respond to Plaintiff's letter or agree to rectify the problems associated 11 with the actions detailed above and give notice to all affected consumers within 30 days of 12 the date of written notice pursuant to § 1782, Plaintiff will amend his complaint to seek 13 actual, punitive, and statutory damages, as appropriate against Defendant.

14 86. Filed concurrently herewith is a declaration of venue pursuant to CAL. CIV.
15 CODE §1780(d).

16 VII. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

17 Wherefore, Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and all other members of the Class, request 18 that this Court award relief against Defendant as follows:

19 a. an order certifying the Class and designating Plaintiff as the Class 20 Representative and her counsel as Class Counsel;

21 b. awarding Plaintiff and members of the Class restitution and 22 disgorgement of all profits and unjust enrichment that Defendant obtained from 23 Plaintiff and the Class members as a result of its unlawful, unfair, and fraudulent 24 business practices described herein;

25 c. awarding Plaintiff and members of the Class actual, statutory, and 26 punitive damages;

27 d. awarding declaratory and injunctive relief as permitted by law or equity, 28 including: enjoining Defendant from continuing the unlawful practices as set forth

1 herein, and directing Defendant to identify, with Court supervision, victims of its 2 misconduct and pay them all money they are required to pay;

3 e. order Defendant to engage in a corrective advertising campaign;

4 f. awarding attorneys' fees and costs; and 5 g. for such other and further relief as the Court may deem necessary or 6 appropriate.

7 VIII. DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

8 Plaintiff hereby demand a jury trial for all of the claims so triable.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTORNEYS COMPLETING CIVIL COVER SHEET FORM JS 44

Authority For Civil Cover Sheet

The JS 44 civil cover sheet and the information contained herein neither replaces nor supplements the filings and service of pleading or other papers as required by law, except as provided by local rules of court. This form, approved by the Judicial Conference of the United States in September 1974, is required for the use of the Clerk of Court for the purpose of initiating the civil docket sheet. Consequently, a civil cover sheet is submitted to the Clerk of Court for each civil complaint filed. The attorney filing a case should complete the form as follows:

- I.(a) Plaintiffs-Defendants. Enter names (last, first, middle initial) of plaintiff and defendant. If the plaintiff or defendant is a government agency, use only the full name or standard abbreviations. If the plaintiff or defendant is an official within a government agency, identify first the agency and then the official, giving both name and title.
- (b) County of Residence. For each civil case filed, except U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county where the first listed plaintiff resides at the time of filing. In U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county in which the first listed defendant resides at the time of filing. (NOTE: In land condemnation cases, the county of residence of the "defendant" is the location of the tract of land involved.)
- (c) Attorneys. Enter the firm name, address, telephone number, and attorney of record. If there are several attorneys, list them on an attachment, noting in this section "(see attachment)".
- II. Jurisdiction. The basis of jurisdiction is set forth under Rule 8(a), F.R.Cv.P., which requires that jurisdictions be shown in pleadings. Place an "X" in one of the boxes. If there is more than one basis of jurisdiction, precedence is given in the order shown below.
 United States plaintiff. (1) Jurisdiction based on 28 U.S.C. 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here. United States defendant. (2) When the plaintiff is suing the United States, its officers or agencies, place an "X" in this box.
 Federal question. (3) This refers to suits under 28 U.S.C. 1331, where jurisdiction arises under the Constitution of the United States, an amendment to the Constitution, an act of Congress or a treaty of the United States. In cases where the U.S. is a party, the U.S. plaintiff or defendant code takes precedence, and box 1 or 2 should be marked.
 Diversity of citizenship. (4) This refers to suits under 28 U.S.C. 1332, where parties are citizens of different states. When Box 4 is checked, the citizenship of the different parties must be checked. (See Section III below; NOTE: federal question actions take precedence over diversity cases.)
- III. Residence (citizenship) of Principal Parties. This section of the JS 44 is to be completed if diversity of citizenship was indicated above. Mark this section for each principal party.
- IV. Nature of Suit. Place an "X" in the appropriate box. If there are multiple nature of suit codes associated with the case, pick the nature of suit code that is most applicable. Click here for: Nature of Suit Code Descriptions.
- V. Origin. Place an "X" in one of the seven boxes.
 Original Proceedings. (1) Cases which originate in the United States district courts.
 Removed from State Court. (2) Proceedings initiated in state courts may be removed to the district courts under Title 28 U.S.C., Section 1441.
 Remanded from Appellate Court. (3) Check this box for cases remanded to the district court for further action. Use the date of remand as the filing date.
 Reinstated or Reopened. (4) Check this box for cases reinstated or reopened in the district court. Use the reopening date as the filing date.
 Transferred from Another District. (5) For cases transferred under Title 28 U.S.C. Section 1404(a). Do not use this for within district transfers or multidistrict litigation transfers.
 Multidistrict Litigation – Transfer. (6) Check this box when a multidistrict case is transferred into the district under authority of Title 28 U.S.C. Section 1407.
 Multidistrict Litigation – Direct File. (8) Check this box when a multidistrict case is filed in the same district as the Master MDL docket.
PLEASE NOTE THAT THERE IS NOT AN ORIGIN CODE 7. Origin Code 7 was used for historical records and is no longer relevant due to changes in statute.
- VI. Cause of Action. Report the civil statute directly related to the cause of action and give a brief description of the cause. Do not cite jurisdictional statutes unless diversity. Example: U.S. Civil Statute: 47 USC 553 Brief Description: Unauthorized reception of cable service.
- VII. Requested in Complaint. Class Action. Place an "X" in this box if you are filing a class action under Rule 23, F.R.Cv.P.
 Demand. In this space enter the actual dollar amount being demanded or indicate other demand, such as a preliminary injunction.
 Jury Demand. Check the appropriate box to indicate whether or not a jury is being demanded.
- VIII. Related Cases. This section of the JS 44 is used to reference related pending cases, if any. If there are related pending cases, insert the docket numbers and the corresponding judge names for such cases.

Date and Attorney Signature. Date and sign the civil cover sheet.
